McKeldin Defeats Jackson for Mayor of Baltimore

American, French Troops Within Artillery Range Of Bizerte; Mateur Falls

Allied Column Driving Toward Big Naval Base Occupies More than Half the Northern Shores of Lake Achkel; Americans Mopping Up Axis Forces East of Mateur in Large Numbers

By WILLIAM B. KING

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, May 4 (AP)—Bizerte now is within heavy artillery range of American and French troops driving along the Northern shores of Lake Ackel toward the big naval base, front dispatches reported tonight.

This Allied column pushed forward two more miles overnight to occupy more than half the Northern shores of the lake, and now has swung toward Bizerte, meeting "some resistance" in rough country, Associated Press Correspondent Harold V. Boyle reported from the front.

Meanwhile, American troops spanning out from captured Mateur were striking toward Bizerte and Southeast toward Tunis.

The Nazi retreat east of Mateur continues, Boyle said, and the Americans are mopping up Axis soldiers, apparently in large numbers who were by-passed and then pocketed between the Jefna position and Mateur when the United States troops plunged in a lightning, fourteen-mile advance into the strategic rail center.

Americans Pursue Nazis

German guns to the northeast of the town are pouring occasional shells into Mateur.

Part of the American forces pursued the retreating Nazis toward Ferryville, power center of the Bizerte naval base, ten miles northeast of Mateur.

Others fanned out to the southeast in a ten-mile advance which carried them within ten miles of Tebourba, the gateway to Tunis. They reached a point eight miles

DEFEATS JACKSON

THEODORE R. MCKELDIN, Republican, defeated Mayor Howard W. Jackson, yesterday by 20,111 votes to become the first Republican mayor of Baltimore since 1931. (See story this page.)

G.O.P. Nominee Wins Election By 20,111 Votes In Big Upset

Will Be First Republican Mayor in Baltimore Since 1931; Four-Times Mayor Is Badly Beaten

BALTIMORE, May 4 (AP)—Theodore R. McKeldin was elected mayor of Baltimore today, becoming the first Republican chief executive of the nation's seventh largest city since 1931.

He defeated four-times Mayor Howard W. Jackson, Democratic incumbent, by a majority of almost 20,000 votes as tabulation of the unofficial returns was completed from the city's 471 polling places.

Unofficial returns gave McKeldin, a 42-year-old attorney, a total of 77,402 votes to 57,291 for Jackson.

The election of McKeldin in heavily-Democratic Baltimore continued a trend first noted last November, when the GOP captured two of the state's six seats in Congress and McKeldin himself, running for the governorship against Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor, was defeated by only about 18,000 votes.

Jackson, veteran Democratic leader in Maryland politics, had served one term as the city's chief executive in the mid-twenties, was returned in 1931, and has held office since that time.

McKeldin also was Jackson's opponent four years ago, but lost by about 25,000 votes.

Light Vote Is Cast

The present mayor's two democratic running mates were elected to city offices as Jackson tumbled to defeat in what observers regarded as one of the biggest upsets in Maryland politics in many years.

Ickes Puts Coal Mines of Nation On 6-Day-Week

Miners' Wage Controversy Appears To Be as Deadlocked as Ever

By WILLIAM T. PEACOCK

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP)—An order for a six-day week in all coal mines was issued today by Fuels Administrator Ickes, while the miners' wage controversy appeared to be as deadlocked as ever despite general resumption of production under a fifteen-day truce.

Ickes, government boss of the mines, ordered the six-day week to assure, he said, that coal output meets needs of war industries. Some labor men took the view that its assurance of overtime pay for miners opened an avenue for John L. Lewis, the United Mine Workers' chieftain, to retreat from his present wage demands, but others minimized its importance. Operators' representatives and officials in Ickes' office said that most mines have been on a six-day-week for some time.

Lewis Remains Silent

Lewis himself had no comment immediately.

Meantime, with virtually all the miners back at work, the War Labor Board announced hearings would be resumed Thursday by the panel it appointed to find the facts of the soft coal wage dispute. The same panel was directed also to inquire into the anthracite dispute.

Hearings were stopped when the board referred the case to the White House last week after it became clear a general work stoppage was in prospect.

Thus far, Lewis and the UMW have failed to send representatives to the hearings but the board has proceeded without them.

At a press conference today President Roosevelt strongly indicated that he considered the dispute to be within the domain of the War Labor Board.

Asked whether the negotiations were in the hands of WLB, he replied that all you have to do is read the law on that point.

"What law?" a reporter inquired.

He said he meant his executive order and the law under which the whole thing was set up last October. But he gave no further specifications.

The chief executive said he still had had no word on the coal situation from Lewis, subsequent to the Sunday night's speech in which the chief executive appealed to miners to go back to work under the American flag.

"Are you satisfied with the way the coal business is going?" he was asked.

Allied Invasion Of Sardinia and Sicily Is Feared

Axis Spokesman Envisions Attack May Come Soon from Gibraltar

By JAMES M. LONG

LONDON, May 4 (AP) — The Nazis acknowledged today that the grim prospect of an Allied invasion of Europe is so imminent it might bypass the Tunisian bridgehead and come in the form of an amphibious assault on the Sardinian and Sicilian stepping-stones, even before the collapse of Tunis and Bizerte.

Broadcasts by the Vichy radio and the chief military commentator of the Berlin radio suggested hastily mounting apprehension that the Allies already may have men and boats ready for the blow, against which Premier Mussolini was reported renewing urgent appeals direct to Adolf Hitler for fighting assistance.

The Russian front was being watched closely by observers here for a ready clue to the actual weight of Hitler's fears. The Russian barometer was based on the belief that Hitler hardly would dare to attempt the usual full-scale spring onslaught on the Eastern front if faced with the imminent menace of a British-American invasion.

With the Vichy radio adding daily to its reports of recent concentrations of Allied invasion-type barge fleets at Gibraltar and the Algerian coast, the Berlin commentator, Capt. Ludwig Sertorius, evidenced Nazi worry over the preparations being made by the United States Fifth Army apart from the Tunisian action.

"Huge British and American armies are massed in Algeria and Morocco," he said — "enough to form not one but several armies x x x. Therefore the question must be asked whether the Allied high command is keeping the bulk of its army reserves in Tunisia in the Western region because it is planning a landing maneuver on a large scale."

U. S. Submarines Sink Six More Japanese Ships

Two Destroyers Sent to Bottom during Operations in Pacific

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP) — In rapid-fire order, the United States Navy described today how its forces had forged a new link in a far-flung chain of advance bases menacing Japan's Pacific empire, had sunk six Japanese vessels in submarine forays and had put a superior Japanese surface force to flight in a North Pacific encounter.

The developments:

1. American occupation of the Russell islands, which guard the exposed flank of Guadalcanal in the Solomons—a likely preliminary to more important actions.

2. United States submarines have sunk two Japanese destroyers and four additional craft, and damaged a transport, bringing to 222 the total of Japanese ships announced as sunk or damaged by American submarines. The latest Japanese losses: two destroyers, one-medium tanker, one medium cargo ship, one medium supply ship, one medium transport—all sunk in the Pacific and Far East — and one large transport damaged and probably sunk.

Show Scope of Victory

3. Details disclosed by the Navy showed the scope of our victory in the war's first naval action in the North Pacific.

That engagement was the Battle of the Komandorskies, fought March 26 near those Russian islands at the confluence of the North Pacific and the Bering sea, and first announced March 28 in a naval communique which told of an American force's

DIE IN PLANE CRASH IN ICELAND

AN AIRPLANE ACCIDENT in an isolated locality in Iceland Monday took the lives of Lieut. Gen. Frank M. Andrews (left), commander of all American forces in the European theater of operations, and Bishop Adna W. Leonard (right), of the Methodist Episcopal church, who was flying with him. (See story below).

LIEUT. GEN. FRANK M. ANDREWS IS KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

Commander of American Forces in European War Theater Dies in Iceland

LONDON, Wednesday, May 5—(AP)—Lieut. Gen. Frank M. Andrews, flying general commanding all United States forces in the European war theater, was killed Monday in an airplane crash somewhere in Iceland, it was announced officially early today, and several other "high ranking" army officials were believed to have been aboard the same plane.

Methodist Bishop Adna Wright Leonard, who was representing thirty-one American Protestant denominations in a global tour of United States military bases, also was killed in the crash, the War department in Washington reported without amplification.

Details of the crash were being withheld by army censors in London, and headquarters announced only that General Andrews, a brilliant air-general holding one of the most important commands of the United States Army, had died in the crash "in an isolated locality in Iceland." The announcement said "full information concerning the accident is not yet available."

The tragedy on the bleak island claimed the life of the eighth American general to be killed or missing in this war, and the 59-year-old Andrews was the highest-ranking United States Army officer lost.

Enthusiastic Airman

A square-jawed, deeply-tanned, and hard-fighting man, Andrews on Feb. 5 had taken over the European command, succeeding Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower. He came to this post from the command of American trops in the Middle East.

To most of his officers and men, Andrews was "The General," and a flying general, for he was one of the few officers of his rank and age with a pilot's rating.

Since early in his career he had been an enthusiastic airman, was a strong advocate of a powerful army air arm, and it was partly at his insistence that Flying Fortresses—one

Bishop Adna W. Leonard of Methodist Church Dies in Same Accident

PITTSBURGH, May 4 (AP) — Bishop Adna W. Leonard of the Methodist Episcopal church, died in the airplane crash in which General Frank M. Andrews was killed in a flight to Iceland, the bishop's son, A. W. Leonard, Jr., said he was notified tonight by the War department.

"We were informed the plane crashed on a trip to Iceland and that only one enlisted man survived," said the son. "There was no other information available."

Bishop Leonard was representing thirty-one Protestant American denominations in a tour of overseas United States service posts.

The last report from him was in a dispatch from Belfast, Northern Ireland, this morning, in which he summed up a two-day tour of camps in that area by saying:

"I cannot speak too highly of the grand way the people of Northern Ireland have treated our boys."

POINTS MUST BE USED TO BUY SCRAPPLE

BALTIMORE, May 4 (AP) — The Maryland Office of Price Administration ended a controversy of several week's standing today with a ruling that buyers must surrender meat points for the purchase of scrapple with a meat content of more than twenty per cent.

OPA specialists said that numerous complaints had been received from both housewives and dealers, charg g that points were demanded or weren't demanded for scrapple. The situation was confusing, the OPA added, because many dealers and consumers were not acquainted with the twenty per cent regulation, in effect for several weeks.

The packer must indicate whether his scrapple is composed of twenty per cent meat," the OPA said. "The packer must tell the dealer who must tell the consumer."

Heavy Daylight Raid Made by Allies On Jap Base in Dutch New Guinea

Two Enemy Planes Shot Down in Daring 1,200 Mile Foray

By TOM YARBROUGH

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Wednesday, May 5—(AP)—The Allies have delivered their heaviest raid, made daringly by daylight, on Babo, Dutch New Guinea, the high command announced today.

Six Japanese float planes attempted to intercept the raiders over the Aroe Islands and two of the enemy were shot down.

Babo is in the MacCluer Gulf in northwestern Dutch New Guinea, some 1,200 miles west of the Allied base of Port Moresby.

The raid was made by four-engined bombers in the face of unfavorable weather. Large fires were reported started on the enemy base and aircraft caught on the ground, was damaged.

The Japanese interception occurred on the return flight. The Aroe Islands are south and slightly east of Babo.

Despite the hazards of the flight, all Allied bombers got home. Daylight forays at such great distances by the Allies are infrequent because of the inability to have the protection of fighter planes.

Elsewhere to the northwest of Ausrtalia, medium bombers attacked barges and luggers off Tajandoe Island in the Kai group.

Liberators made up the force which attacked Babo. The bad weather they encountered has been prevailing for some time, causing curtailment of aerial action over a wide area.

The Babo raid occurred yesterday (Tuesday).

Two places on the North coast of New Britain were raided by single planes—Lolobau Island and Kimbe Bay. Fires were started among Japanese barges. Reconnaissance planes make it almost routine duty to shoot up these barges, the enemy making considerable use of them to deliver coastal supplies.

It was also disclosed at General Douglas MacArthur's headquarters that on May 3 a single Liberator off Cape Gloucester, New Britain, was attacked by twelve Zeros but the enemy planes did not press home the attack and the bomber escaped in a cover of clouds.

Triumph Company Blast at Elkton Takes at Least 13 Workers' Lives

Army's Estimate of Loss of Life Runs as High as 25; Scores Injured; Cause Unknown

By CHARLES WHITFORD

ELKTON, Md., May 4 (AP) — A shattering explosion, followed by fire among buildings of the Triumph Explosives, Inc., caused the death of at least thirteen workers today with scores injured and indications that the toll of lives would mount with investigation.

Plant officials announced a few hours after the blast that thirteen were known dead, while estimate of the loss of life in information available from the army ran as high as twenty-five: Likewise, Triumph executives said sixty had been injured with other official estimates setting the total hurt as high as 125.

Fire broke out immediately after the blast shook Elkton, famed as Maryland's Gretna Green, in midafternoon and spread to nearby buildings, causing additional damage.

Benjamin F. Pepper, Triumph company president, said the army, navy and Federal Bureau of Investigation officials quickly took over direction of relief work and check as to cause of the blast.

Outsiders were barred from the area and only relief workers admitted.

Other Casualties Feared

Pepper said seachers still were digging into the smoking ruins for possible other dead and injured and that "we are calling the roll" of employes to try and fix a definite casualty list.

State police notified the army in Baltimore that the injured totalled about 125. Six buildings were reported damaged.

"More than one building was involved," Pepper said, adding that the scene was near the Southern

Jeffers Asserts Rubber Program Spurs Gas Output

Says Further Curtailment Now Would Be a "Tragic Error"

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP) — Rubber Director William M. Jeffers rang down the curtain today on the Senate Truman committee's investigation of Washington's latest priorities squabble. His performance precipitated an outburst of applause from a packed hearing room.

Jeffers, testifying that the only criticism raised against him had been that he had done his job "too well," accepted the "truce" offered yesterday by Undersecretary of War Patterson in "the same spirit in which it was made."

Contradicts Patterson

Nevertheless, he contradicted Patterson's assertion that preferences granted rubber had retarded production of gasoline for fighting planes, said Jeffers:

"The 100-octane gasoline program is months ahead of what it would have been if it had not been for activities of my organiaztion in breaking bottlenecks and finding new sources of supply for both programs."

Senator Mead (D-NY) suggested he should consider "taking over" the aviation gasoline program. Jeffers responded he wants to leave Washington "as quickly as possible."

But the suggestion evoked so much handclapping that Chairman Truman (D-Mo), rapping for order, reminded the audience "this is a solemn committee hearing."

Jeffers testified he could not go along with "some in the OPA" and elsewhere who would restrict civilians to barest necessities, adding:

"When it gets to the idea of forcing unnecessary restrictions on the American people, you

Provides for Cancellation Of Most Income Taxes For the Year of 1942

Abates Six Per Cent Normal and Thirteen Per Cent First Bracket Sur-tax; Imposes Twenty Per Cent Withholding Levy against Wages and Salaries Effective July 1

By FRANCIS M. LEMAY

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP)—Terminating one of the bitterest party battles of recent years, the House today passed, 313 to 95, a pay-as-you-go bill wiping out the 1942 Federal income tax liabilities completely for approximately ninety per cent of the taxpayers and imposing a twenty per cent withholding levy against the taxable portions of wages and salaries, effective July 1.

The action came in a dramatic series of steps in which the democrats barely battered down, 206 to 202, the modified Ruml plan which would have skipped a complete tax year.

Against the Ruml plan were 192 Democrats, 11 Republicans, three minor party members.

For it were 188 Republicans and fourteen Democrats.

Republicans Back Compromise

When the Ruml bill failed the Republicans swung almost to the man to the compromise, and a measure supported by Democratic leaders never came to a vote.

In the debate, tempers flared, at one time reaching such a pitch that Speaker Rayburn got out the House rule book to decree that no member could call another a "demagogue."

The approved bill, offered by Reps. Robertson (D-Va) and Forand (D-RI), abates the six per cent normal and thirteen per cent first bracket sur-tax on the 1942 income of all taxpayers, wiping out approximately $7,600,000,000 of the $10,000,000,000 of federal tax assessments against the last year's incomes.

It now goes to the Senate where Republicans and some Democrats are prepared to open a new battle for the Ruml skip-a-year plan.

The tall, lanky Robertson told the House the measure would put virtually all of the nation's 44,000,000 individual income taxpayers immediately on a pay-as-you-go system whereby they henceforward would remit taxes in one year on the basis of income the same year instead of on the income of the previous year.

The historic tax battle, which saw Democrats and Republicans locked

McKeldin Receives Congratulations From GOP Chairman

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP)—Harrison E. Spangler, chairman of the National Republican Committee, tonight sent the following telegram to Theodore R. McKeldin, mayor-elect of Baltimore:

"Congratulations upon your well-earned victory", the telegram read. "The people of Baltimore have registered as have other electorates over the country recently, their determination to rid themselves of entrenched Bureaucracy and to turn from New Deal confusion to Republican principles. The vote you have received is a tribute to you personally, but I am sure it also evidences the desire of the American people to elect governments that will contribute to winning the war without political by plays. The voters are looking for sound administration to provide jobs and prosperity when the war is over rather than a new era of wasteful spending and WPA. Your voters have expressed better than I can the expectation that you will provide the type of clean, fine administration toward which Americans everywhere are striving. Best wishes."

Flying Fortresses Bomb Antwerp Area In Daylight Attack

All of Big Bombers Return from Mission; Three Fighters Are Lost

A U. S. BOMBER STATION IN ENGLAND, May 4 (AP)—Flying Fortresses of the Eighth U. S. Air Force bombed industrial targets in the Belgian city of Antwerp today in their second daylight attack on Nazi-held Europe this month.

Returning fliers reported that the mission was "perfect." The bombers met their fighter escort on the dot, dodged between the Germans' light anti-aircraft barrages and counted only a few enemy fighters.

They saw their bombs go right into the target and arrived back at the English coast within thirty seconds of the scheduled time.

Not a single bomber was lost, Eighth Air Force headquarters announced. A communique said the escorting fighters engaged in several combats with enemy aircraft and shot down two. Several enemy fighters were destroyed by the bombers. Three of the escorting planes failed to return.

In addition to American planes, the escort was made up or RAF, Dominion and Allied fighters.

Although Flying Fortresses have had American fliers in escorts before, Flying Spitfires under RAF administration, this was the first time an escort included full American squadrons flying under the Eighth U. S. Air Force fighter command.

The operations of the latter until now had been confined to fighter sweeps over Europe during the rebuilding of the fighter force after a large section of it had been taken for the African campaign last fall.

Large-Scale Air Warfare Waged On Russian Front

Major Struggle of Summer Appears To Be Getting Under Way

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, May 4 (AP)—While the ground forces fought along a relatively static line of strong fortifications in the Kuban district of the Caucasus, the Russian and German air forces waged sky warfare on a large scale today and it appeared possible that the major struggle of the summer was getting under way.

The official news agency Tass reported from the Kuban that fifty-four German planes had been shot down in a forty-eight-hour period against the loss of twenty-one Soviet craft and, unlike some other days, the Red Air force this time was able to meet every challenge of the Nazi air arm.

U. S. Planes Take Part

American-made planes were taking their part in these violent battles, and the Russians were heartened by a broadcast over the Moscow radio, based on a report of the United States Lease-Lend Administration, that the United States had sent to Russia more planes than to any other ally or to any other battle area.

(Indications that the Red air force was active outside Russia as well came in an Italian broadcast reporting an air raid on the Axis-held Rumanian port of Constanta on the Black sea. The Axis conceded some damage, although terming it slight, and said two of the raiders were shot down. The last reported raid on Rumania, on last Sept. 13, was made to Russian planes.)

Third Big Nazi Effort

The German attempt to expand the Kuban bridgehead is the third big effort of the Nazi command to start moving again after the disasters of the winter, the first having been the broken campaign to cross the Donets in force and the second having been the bankrupt mass German attacks of Orel.

(The regular communique of the German command claimed that on Monday the Russians "continued heavy attacks against the Kuban bridgehead but were unable to score any successes." It added: "Fierce battles of defense are continuing.") of the principal types of heavy bombers—were developed.

Much Russian attention was centered on the news of continued Allied successes in Tunisia. The end of the Tunisian campaign was eagerly awaited in the expectation that it would be followed by the establishment of a second front in Europe. The Soviet army newspaper Red Star carried a detailed story and a map showing Allied progress.

Commander

As long ago as 1935, Andrews had urged giant fleets of four-engined bombers.

When he took over his new command here, he asserted that "my first job is to increase and intensify the bombing of the enemy."

As a pilot, Andrews held several United States and world records for long distance flights, and once when urged by friends to quit solo flying, he replied: "I don't want to be one of those generals who die in bed."

Andrews, 59, organized and commanded the United States Army's General headquarters air force from March, 1935, until March, 1939.

He was sent to Panama as commander of the Caribbean defense area when the European war broke out, and then was assigned to the Cairo command last year.

Recently Observed Birthday

Andrews couldn't stay away from plane controls so great was his passion for flying, and on the long trip to London from Cairo to take his command he flew a big bomber at least half the distance.

He had long advocated dive-bombing, with a clear vision of the necessity of air superiority for victory.

He did little joyriding in the air, but one of his aides called him the best one-man reconnaissance unit he ever saw" because of his habit of flying for himself to see for himself the conditions of his field of operations.

He had celebrated his fifty-ninth birthday anniversary since taking command here.

Mr. Roosevelt said he thought he had no news on that at all.

Under a six-day week, miners get pay at the rate of time and one-half for work on the sixth day. Thus an inside worker who gets the basic $7 a day receives $35 for the first five days and $10.50 for the extra day.

Those who suggested it might be of importance in settlement of the wage controversy said Lewis could take the view that it partially met the demand for $2 a day increase in wages. But others, declaring most miners already were working six days, said Ickes' order could not be expected to have any major effect in the wage controversy. In addition to $2 a day increase, the UMW has asked an $8 minimum daily wage, pay for underground travel, and unionization of minor mines.

edge of the property about one mile from the administration building.

Ambulances, fire departments, Red Cross units and civilian defense workers from miles around, including Pennsylvania and Delaware, rushed to this once-tiny village now swollen with war workers to aid in rescue work.

Pepper said it was the first major explosion at the plant since Pearl Harbor, and came about 3 p. m. The terrific blast was heard for miles, and heavily shook the city which now has a population of some 12,000 compared with 3,518 in peacetimes.

Most of the injured were cared for at the plant's own hospital on the grounds, but the more seriously hurt and the overflow victims were taken to Elkton Union hospital and to the Immaculate Conception Catholic church, where the basement had been already prepared for such an emergency by civilian defense officials.

Cause of Blast Unknown

Elkton, county seat of Cecil county, is famous in the East as the Atlantic Seaboard's most popular marriage mart. There were approximately 20,000 marriages there in 1942, despite Maryland's forty-eight hour application law, many couples including society folk and theater luminaries.

When war came, the countryside for miles around was solicited for explosive workers, many of whom drive to work daily from towns thirty to fifty miles distant. A majority of these are from Maryland's Eastern Shore, Pennsylvania, and Delaware, although large groups of girls were recruited last year from Western Maryland and West Virginia.

Because of the widespread area from which these workers came, telephone lines into Elkton were flooded with calls from anxious relatives as soon as word of the explosion spread. Telephone company employes said it was the busiest afternoon in the exchange's history.

About the narrow, winding streets of the hilly little city, queues of citizens gathered, talking in anxious, subdued tones. Most every family here has some relative in some section of the plant.

Brig. Gen. Dwight Mohr, commander of the Maryland State Guard, ordered out the Elkton units which patrolled the streets armed with shotguns. Business houses were almost all closed. Scores gathered in front of hospitals where the injured were taken and others got as close to the plant grounds as state troopers and federal guards would allow.

Red Cross Workers at Scene

Traffic was halted a mile from the blast scene and at darkness only those admitted on relief and rescue work were allowed to pass.

The Elkton canteen unit of the Red Cross was having its annual meeting and party for election of officers. Quickly after the explosion members rushed home to change to Red Cross uniforms and the refreshments they had prepared for pleasure were served to rescue workers. A sizable Red Cross unit from Wilmington, Del., came immediately to help.

Col. Beverly Ober, superintendent of Maryland State Police, directed his officers on traffic and guard duty.

State policemen at the scene, which was described as "utter confusion," told the army's Third Service Command in Baltimore that "from 100 to 125 were injured."

Red Cross disaster relief officials were sent to the plant to direct assistance. The cafeteria of the Triumph plant was reported damaged and there was no way to feed workmen.

Major Robert Chutter, in charge of the Army's regional office of safety and security at Philadelphia went to Elkton immediately to investigate the cause. Army and navy authorities in Baltimore also were notified and began investigations.

The cause of the blast was not known, officials said, but it occurred in a storage building, damaging another structure nearby. Fire then spread and many workmen were burned critically.

Bodies Are Mangled

The blaze-proved stubborn to get under control and besides Elkton equipment, fire companies from Northeast and Chesapeake City, Md., and from Newark, Del., responded to a call for help.

Union hospital was filled with injured and the plant hospital, besides being filled with seriously injured men and women, gave first aid to many less seriously hurt. Cots from churches and other buildings in Elkton were taken in trucks to the plant which is located about one mile from the little town.

Observers described the scene as "the worst thing anyone could imagine seeing." The bodies were mangled and identification was difficult. All workers at the plant wear identification clips and on these officials expected to make some identifications.

Many of those injured were reported "horribly burned.' Men and women were included in the victims.

As for his controversy with Patterson, who criticized a January WPB directive ordering completion of fifty-five per cent of the Buna S rubber program, Jeffers declared, "We are both struggling to win this war and have no other or personal motives."

Further Cuts Unnecessary

Jeffers declared further curtailment of the rubber program would be "a tragic error," and denied the civilian population is "being coddled."

Recaps for civilian tires, he said, are made from "reclaimed rubber from junk piles," and a month to month survey of essential civilian needs had resulted in his order to cancel synthetic rubber plants with a capacity of 224,000 long tons.

Directives granted rubber in the program's earlier days, he declared, benefitted high octain gasoline, and "the byproducts of the butadiene plants" built under directives would provide constituents for "more than 20,000 barrels per day of high octane gasoline," to which must be added contributions from plants being built without directives.

The army, he observed, "isn't just the men in uniform," but also 30,000,000 Americans supplying the armed forces.

gates, was elected to the presidency of the city council over S. Robert Levinson, former police court magistrate. The unofficial total gave Conlon 74,046 votes to Levinson's 43,528.

Howard E. Crook, Democratic business firm head, was elected city comptroller over Howard C. Beck, Jr., city auditor. The total gave Crook 70,137 votes to 49,970 for Beck.

Despite an active campaign by both candidates for the mayoralty, the vote was light. Only 134,693 votes were cast in the mayoral election, out of a total registration of approximately 365,000.

Eighteen city council posts were also at stake.

Baltimore has not had a Republican mayor since the 1927-31 term, when William F. Broening occupied the city hall's highest position. McKeldin served as secretary to Broening.

Lost Four Years Ago

McKeldin, who was Jackson's opponent four years ago, also ran against Herbert R. O'Conor for the state's highest office last November, and although he was defeated he polled a surprisingly large vote, particularly in Baltimore City.

Theodore Roosevelt McKeldin was born in Baltimore on Nov. 20, 1900, and was educated in the public schools, later attending night classes at City college. His first employment, when he was fourteen, was as a messenger at the Citizens National Bank.

After working for some years, he obtained a law degree from the University of Maryland in 1925, and entered law practice two years later. He first entered politics during Broening's campaign, being rewarded by being named the mayor's executive secretary.

He was married on Oct. 17, 1924, to Honolulu Claire Manzer, and they have two children.

in tight legislative combat on the issue of the Ruml plan, ended swiftly with these developments.

Final Vote 313 to 95

1. Sitting as a committee, the House approved 197 to 166 the Republican-sponsored Ruml plan.

2. Then the full House rejected it, 206 to 202. (A month ago the Ruml plan was beaten 215 to 198).

3. Thereupon, Rep. Knutson (R-Minn), who had led the battle for the Ruml bill, moved that the pay-as-you-go measure be recommitted to the Ways and Means committee with instructions that the committee report the Robertson-Forand compromise. The Republicans threw their force behind the motion and with the help of some Democrats it carried 230 to 180.

4. The committee immediately reported the Robertson-Forand bill, and by a standing vote of 233 to 115 the House promptly accepted it as a substitute to a measure drafted by the Democratic majority. (The bill supported by Democratic leaders would have applied the softer 1941 rates and exemptions to 1942 income and amortized the reduced amount over a three-year period.)

5. Then finally, by a roll call vote of 313 to 95 the House approved the compromise (Robertson-Forand) bill, ending the controversy until the pay-as-you-go issue is taken up by the Senate.

turning back a Japanese force evidently bound for Kiska or Attu.

The outnumbered but never outfought American task force engaged the Japanese expedition in daylight for three and a half hours. The battle ended when three American destroyers made a bold torpedo attack as a result of which the Japanese retreated.

Damage to the enemy from American shell-fire included hits on two heavy cruisers and one light cruiser. In addition one of the heavy cruisers was torpedoed.

United States vessels, on the other hand, suffered only minor damage and casualties to personnel were "extremely light," a communique said.

The Japanese force consisted of the two heavy cruisers, two light cruisers and six destroyers, seeking to deliver two transports to Japan's Aleutian bases. The American force, commanded by Rear Admiral Charles M. McMorris, consisted of only one heavy cruiser, one light cruiser and four destroyers. This force was patrolling virtually in Russian waters southeast of Russia's Kormandorskie islands in the Bering sea when the enemy was sighted and the fight started shortly after dawn of the twenty-sixth.

south of Mateur toward the line of the Tine river, which is only six miles northwest of Tebourba.

(The French communique, broadcast by the Algiers radio and recorded by the Associated Press, announced the opening of a new offensive in the South. "Our forces passed to the attack this morning," it said, and began an assault on Pont Du Fahs, which lies between the British First and Eighth armies. "The operation is proceeding favorably. More than 100 prisoners have already been taken.")

Axis Airfields Shelled

(A British broadcast, recorded in New York by CBS, said "long range Allied guns now have Ferryville under fire and several Axis airfields in the area have now been made untenable by shellfire." This broadcast said Americans advancing on Ferryville had "come up against a new line of resistance.")

Front dispatches, however, said the Americans northeast of Mateur had crossed the River Tine, in spite of the destruction of a bridge by Col.-Gen. Jurgen Von Arnim's Axis forces, and pushed on toward Ferryville.

There was no indication as to how far they might be able to proceed before meeting strong enemy resistance.

(The Berlin radio pointed out in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press that Mateur is bordered "by high mountains now occupied by German and Italian formations." These mountains, the broadcast said, "are offering special facilities for defense against expected Anglo-Saxon attacks from a Western direction.")

Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH

Fighting Enemies in the Cabbage Patch

By DEAN HALLIDAY

The cabbage has many insect enemies and some disease which threaten it in the Victory garden but the foresighted gardener can easily prevent these threats to a full harvesting of this succulent vegetable.

The cabbage worm is a persistent enemy and must be fought in the cabbage patch for most of the summer. When the small white or yellow butterfly, illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph, is noticed hovering over the cabbage plants it means that cabbage worms will soon put in an appearance. The cabbage worm, also illustrated, is green in color and about 1¼ inches long. These worms are hatched from eggs laid by the cabbage butterfly.

The cabbage worms can be destroyed soon after hatching by the use of a nicotine spray. Later as the worms grow they can best be killed by spraying with arsenate of lead. This spray, however, should only be used on young plants. To combat the worms on larger cabbage plants use tobacco, pyrethrum or rotenone dusts.

The cabbage looper is another pest which must be guarded against. The looper is the worm of the gray moth commonly found in the garden.

As illustrated the looper is so named because of its habit of "looping" its body as it crawls about on a plant. The looper not only eats cabbage leaves but the foliage of peas, beets, celery, lettuce, tomatoes and potatoes.

The same sprays and dusts used to control the cabbage worm can also be used to check the work of the looper.

Just Another New Deal Idea

THE PRESIDENT SAID upon his return from a seventeen-day tour of the country and Mexico that he believes that every young American should give a year of service to the country. He did not limit the proposal to young men or to military service nor did he mention the year in their lives during which they would be expected to serve the government.

Although he specifically objected to the term "compulsory service" in discussing the proposal, the element of compulsion can not be avoided. In the totalitarian countries which employed this system of regimenting youth, the young people have no choice in the matter. If they are physically and mentally able to be put through the political mill, they are compelled to report for processing.

Although this country may be induced by the experience of this war and the war of twenty-five years ago, and the condition of the world after this war, to adopt some form of compulsory military training for all fit young men, it probably will never elect a Congress that will carry out the president's suggestion.

The people would never intrust their sons and daughters to swarms of federal employes who would quickly organize themselves as a political pressure group and try to regiment their charges in the traditional despotic manner.

The president's suggestion is in line with the policy of many New Dealers. They have been steadily trying to break up the home as the primary social unit. They have pitted paternalism against the church. And they have gone far toward destroying the several states as units of government.

By such devices as the NYA they have reached with some success toward the pollution of the schools. They have already gone too far.

Where Insults Pay Interest

ANYONE who doubts the truth of the saying that a little education is a dangerous thing should consider the following incident reported from Guadalcanal by William M. Volland, a petty officer in the navy's Seabees.

Americans and Japanese faced each other in trenches across a narrow No Man's Land. The Japs, seeking to enrage the Americans and draw them from their foxholes, indulged in a bit of elementary psychology.

"Roosevelt eats garbage," the Japs shouted, apparently expecting an immediate charge. Nothing happened for a few moments while the Americans considered the situation. Then Volland had an idea. If the Japs figured an insult would cause the Americans to abandon their defenses, then the reverse might work. Volland acted accordingly.

"Tojo eats garbage," he yelled.

The results far exceeded his expectations. To his astonishment twenty-six infuriated Japanese sprang from their trenches and dashed for the American lines with leveled bayonets. Volland knocked them all off with his machine gun.

Judging from Volland's experience, the length of the war in the Pacific depends largely upon the number of Japanese soldiers who understand English — or perhaps upon the ability of American fighting men to master a few simple insults in Japanese.

Another Crime Is Contemplated

RUMORS that Germany is about to launch a campaign of poison gas warfare are intensified by reports that for six weeks it has been engaged in an educational program in gas defense practices and that German factories are producing large quantities of gas masks and other protective devices.

Fears that the poison gas threat is imminent are based on two considerations —that whenever any dirty tricks in warfare crop up, the Axis can be relied upon to start them, and that if Germany didn't intend to begin the use of poison gas it wouldn't need to prepare itself against it. Nobody but the conscienceless leaders of the Axis nations would ever start such a thing. Hitler knows that, and Hitler is not the man to pass up a chance to score even a temporary advantage no matter how nefarious a scheme he might employ to achieve it.

Hitler will not hold his hand simply because the idea of gas warfare is repellent to him or because he considers it inhuman. He will hold it only if he calculates that the use of gas will do him no good.

The only hope of the warring world to escape the horrors of poison gas lies in the possibility that Hitler will not dare to lay his country open to certain retaliation. Britain has already warned him that it is prepared to repay in full any German initiation of this type of warfare. The United States and Russia will follow suit.

But Hitler may choose to ignore the warning. He may decide that the advantages he would gain by using gas would outweigh the disadvantages of guarding against it.

If he makes that decision and carries it out, his action will constitute just one more terrible crime in the long list of atrocities which stretches black across the Axis record in this war. It will be one more item of guilt in the heavy score the Axis must be made to pay.

Interstate Marriages

LOCAL NEWSPAPERS frequently carry announcements of marriages of Maryland soldiers with girls of some other state, and of the wedding of Maryland girls to soldiers from other states. Never in the history of the nation has a similar number of marital ties been formed between residents of different states.

These families, when they are settled after the war, are sure to cement closer relationships and better understandings between residents of the states. They will tend to tear down prejudices.

A Colorado soldier training in South Carolina marries a South Carolina girl, or a Montana soldier training in California marries a California girl. Every state is involved in dozens of similar interstate ties. There will be visting back and forth after the war between the various in-laws. Through these visits new habits will be formed, commercial relationships will be established, and there will be migration from one state to another.

And when it comes to moving to a better place, Maryland need not fear the result.

Extra Gasoline For Gardeners

AS THE RESULT of federal orders, Victory gardeners who must commute to their plots may obtain about twenty extra gallons of gasoline for their cars. The new order permits 300 additional miles of travel for gardening purposes, if the gardener can demonstrate that there is no other reasonable method of transportation available.

Apparently the grant of extra fuel is to be on an honor basis, as the OPA has not announced its intention to watch each gardener in an effort to determine whether he cheats occasionally. It has been decided, though, that the Victory effort must be devoted to producing food rather than flowers, the garden must be cultivated regularly and it must contain at least 1,500 square feet.

Some amateur surveying will be the first requirement of the gardener who needs extra gasoline. After that, if he convinces his ration board that his figures are correct and his intentions good, he should have no difficulty in making the necessary arrangements.

In New Jersey 300 persons became involved in a free-for-all which began as a scrap between two school boys. Anyway, the youngsters got a pretty fair idea of what is meant by the phrase "total warfare."

Mussolini, says a news item, may move the capital of Italy from Rome to Bologna. Incidentally, that town would also make ideal headquarters for Herr Goebbels's propaganda bureau.

There is a suspicion that the Berlin radio goes off the air occasionally because the announcer runs out of alibis.

Our noisy friend, the whippoorwill, is back with us again.

The Kibitzer Inside

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Tad Dorgan, who is still lovingly remembered by all who knew him, used to draw pictures of "kibitzers" sitting behind poker and pinochle players and telling them what they SHOULD have done. The Kibitzers never get into the game itself, THEY couldn't play well enough, or they were too stingy to risk their money, or they had "principles" against gambling. But they had no principles against sitting on the sidelines and telling others what they should have done.

Marshall Maslin

Everybody knows what a Kibitzer does. He sits behind you at a bridge game for instance and after a hand has been played he says:

"If you'd retained that re-entry in the dummy you'd have made another trick, or if you'd finessed that queen you wouldn't have been set—you knew Jim had the king."

Whatever you did, the fellow who isn't playing can tell you how you could have done it a little better. If you didn't have a chance to win, he'll tell you you shouldn't have bid. If you win, he'll explain how you could have made more tricks. If you lose, he'll show you how you could have won.

But the Kibitzer behind you doesn't cause as much irritation as the Kibitzer inside who sits and sneers.

The Kibitzer Inside is the inferiority complex people talk so much about. The Kibitzer Behind must be more or less polite. He doesn't dare go too far. He "suggests" and he "advises". But there is no limit to what the Kibitzer Inside will do or say. He howls with laughter, he fills the air with abuse, he says:

"Who told YOU you could play this game of life? Who are YOU that you should try to do ANYTHING worth while? YOU can't win —you are SURE to fail. You think you are getting by but you aren't—everybody is laughing at you, talking about you, and you'd better go back where you came from, you poor ugly incompetent and misdirected child!"

The Kibitzer Inside never gives you what the sporting gents call a "break". He hits you when you are down, and bites at your heels when you are up. He's inside and nobody but you knows he is there. And He is why so many fine persons can't play a good game even when they are dealt good cards.

Lewis Has Control Of the Situation, Paul Mallon Says

By PAUL MALLON

Paul Mallon

WASHINGTON, May 4—In the coal trouble, John Lewis has appeared by his actions to be an incomprehensible, rampant agitator.

The news of events has pictured him as a violent breeder of the secret strike who defied the government but was finally put in his place by Mr. Roosevelt.

There may be some valid spots in this picture, but that is not the way it happened.

To all inside the labor movement, it has been apparent that Mr. Lewis was in control of the whole situation from the beginning. By his actions, he deliberately forced the government to take the steps that were taken—that he wanted the governmen to take. He even forced Mr. Roosevelt to take over the mines. Instead of that step being a punishment to Lewis, it was actually contrived by him.

Mine Operators Hamstrung

He had no chance of getting anything out of the operators, because the government actually controls their business. Prices are fixed by Mr. Ickes's coal commission. No wage increase could be granted by the owners of the mines (in name only) without increasing the prices, and the government would have to do that.

The operators could not even guarantee him a six-day work-week for a year. They have no way of knowing what their business will be six months or a year hence.

Thus, the only way Lewis had a chance to get what he wanted was to sponsor a secret strike and force the government to become his new employer, with whom he could deal under more favorable auspices, this administration desiring always to do nothing to offend labor.

He even got a promise from Mr. Roosevelt in the Sunday night White House radio talk that the government, as his new employer, would carry out all phases of his existing contract—implying that the government, this supposedly impatient and great militant power of all the people, would actually collect Lewis's dues for him under the check-off system.

By-Pass of WLB Sought

His objectives are to get negotiations out of the hands of the unfavorable (to him) War Labor Board, and into the hands of some amenable politician like Mr. Ickes. And he had reason to expect from the government the six-day work week guarantee, which is a way of increasing miners' pay without appearing to do so.

As matters have stood, many operators have been unwilling to pay the time and a half over-time for the sixth day, because it represented a wage increase and greatly increased costs. But Madam Perkins, the labor secretary, publicly suggested this solution. She did not propose that the guarantee be for a year, but Lewis attached that period of time to it.

Apparently, the government, or Perkins at least, takes the novel position that such a wage increase would not be inflationary, because the miners would be doing added work for the increased remuneration.

Therefore, Mr. Lewis, instead of being a whipped and punished errant, is still politically in control of the situation and seems likely to put the government into a very bad hole.

Grants Will Extend

Anything granted to him by the government as an employer will be demanded by all labor. Bill Green and Phil Murray are not going to let Lewis get anything that is also not later granted to them.

There is just one element in the situation working against Mr. Lewis's getting what he wants and the administration's stretching its own price-wage freezing schedules and making the public pay for it in increased prices of coal.

Mr. Roosevelt would personally like to choke him with his bare hands. Their animosity is real, and was not improved when Lewis announced a truce twenty minutes before the president went on the air in an effort to kill the president's speech, or force him to rewrite it.

Personally, Mr. Roosevelt is inclined to give Lewis nothing.

A Crafty Leader

But far from being a power-drunken labor leader, mischievously calling nonsensical strikes and getting himself into trouble, Mr. Lewis is still the smartest man in the labor movement, craftily and cunningly carrying out a planned campaign to wring out constantly improved conditions and pay for his men at the expense of government, or public, or anyone else. These seeming incomprehensive events that flow from him are carefully contrived by him for his purpose.

Impartial authorities who have investigated thoroughly his claims for a wage increase say they lack convincing basis.

This whole affair is a plain manifestation of the new kind of government which has developed from a labor era, an era in which ruthless militant leaders of small organized groups of citizens are able by strong action to become more powerful in working out their pay and privileges than the government itself. They can push the government around.

Operators Completely Lost

Completely lost, pitiful and powerless, are the coal operators, the owners of the mines, who simply have no voice in the matter at all, unable to fix their own prices or wages—or even to keep their mines. Presumably, the profits of government operation, if any, will be turned over to them, but even before Lewis forced federal seizure of the properties, they obviously had lost control over their own business to him.

OUR "LIVING SPACE" PROBLEM

Mine Strike Crisis Is Viewed as a Case Of Chickens Returning Home To Roost

By MARK SULLIVAN

It is common to say, and it is true, that the coal crisis is "a chicken come home to roost", on President Roosevelt's desk. When people say that, they have in mind the personal relations between Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. John L. Lewis. It is true that the two were once political allies and personally close; that Mr. Lewis had, in the Washington phrase, "the run of the White House"; that Mr. Roosevelt helped Mr. Lewis found the Congress of Industrial Organizations; that Mr. Roosevelt did about anything Mr. Lewis asked; that Mr. Lewis contributed some half million dollars of union funds, in gifts or loans, to the Roosevelt campaign of 1936. And it is true that Mr. Lewis subsequently broke with Mr. Roosevelt, and opposed him in the 1940 election. All this about intimacy followed by enmity is quite true. And it is true that the personal feelings thus engendered have a large part in the present crisis.

Mark Sullivan

Ominous Development

But the crisis is a chicken come home to roost in a larger and more ominous sense. The crisis is a consequence of a wish, tenaciously held by the president, to keep labor relations in his own hands, to prevent Congress from legislating on it. Again and again, when Congress was on the point of passing legislation which would have covered the present coal situation, and probably have averted it, Mr. Roosevelt has intervened. On occasions, after the House passed such legislation by votes of more than 2 to 1, and with more than half the Democrats voting for it, Mr. Roosevelt used influence with party leaders in the Senate to prevent that body from acting.

Political Motive Seen

What is the motive? We are almost obliged to assume that the motive may include politics. Keeping labor matters in his own hands tends to strengthen the president as a political leader of labor, tends to make labor dependent on him, and, because he usually favors labor, grateful to him. It is part of the picture tersely painted by one of Mr. Roosevelt's cabinet, Attorney General Biddle, when he said, "the New Deal is a political party tied up with the labor movement under an able political leader."

Preventing Congress from passing laws gives immunity from law—both to labor and to the president. It leaves the president free to decide issues, and take positions, in his personal discretion. It gives him opportunity to exercise this discretion, if he likes, in the interest of political purposes, including personal ambition. It leads labor to look upon the president as protecting them from Congress. It tends, in the minds of labor, to elevate the president above Congress. It causes labor to think of government as government by a man, not by laws. It causes labor to distrust congress.

Shown by Scholar

That this has gone on is shown, and deplored, by a scholar in the field of labor, and a friend of labor, Dr. William M. Leiserson, recently member of the National Labor Relations Board. Writing of dangerous trends in labor, Dr. Leiserson says:

"Another trend is the recent tendency of the labor movement to distrust the Congress of the United States . . . It now . . . looks to the executive departments for the ends it seeks . . . And when a labor movement begins to distrust the representative institutions of a democratic country, and turns to executive power, it is time to take thought".

It is time to take thought, not merely by labor but by all of us. What we have in America is the president teaching labor to look to him instead of to Congress, and labor following that course.

Internal Danger Faced

Whenever, in any country, considerable groups are led to turn away from the legislative body, and look toward the executive—especially when the groups are large, well organized, and politically strong, as labor is—we have the beginning of one-man government, totalitarian government. It is the beginning of the loss of liberty, for labor and for everybody. That is what Dr. Leiserson means when he warns: "Some European labor movements had reason to regret the growth of a similar sentiment in their ranks."

America faces an internal danger of the utmost seriousness. The danger can be averted only by the public insisting that labor policy no longer be left in the discretionary hands of the president and those about him; that labor policy be written into law by Congress.

Functioning Intelligently

From the Wheeling, W. Va., Intelligencer

Appointment of a thirty-three-man committee of House Republicans to study post-war domestic problems is further evidence of the intelligent furctioning of the minority party in this session of Congress.

Speaker Martin has explained that this committee will concern itself, among other things, with war contract cancellations, reconversion of industry to peacetime operation and adjustment of the government's financial interests in war plants.

It has become pretty plain of late that there is a powerful element in the Administration which will seek to take advantage of the post-war situation to entrench and extend the government's participation in and control over industry. The Republicans party is determined that post-war domestic planning must be handled jointly by government and business, and that the emphasis must be on restoration of the private enterprise system rather than the other way 'round. And it wants to be prepared with definite information and specific proposals when the time for action comes.

Performance of the minority in this session of Congress has amply justified the confidence in the Republican party expressed by the voters of America last fall when they greatly increased Republican representation in Congress.

A Severe Jolt To Axis Morale

From the Morgantown, W. Va., Post

When the Allies have finally succeeded in driving the Germans out of North Africa and they now appear to be getting along with their work very well, thank you, one of the biggest gains from their victory will be the tremendous jolt to Axis morale on the continent.

This will be the first clear-cut and conclusive victory which the Allies have scored over the Germans, and it will be difficult if not impossible to explain it away.

The effect ought to be especially strong in Italy which is already in imminent danger of invasion. The Italians have not been kept in ignorance of the fact that Marshal Rommel sacrificed Italian troops to the British in covering the retreat of German soldiers, and their affection for Hitler is probably already close to the zero mark.

It will be a tremendous encouragement, also, to the conquered peoples of Europe to hear that the most widely publicized of the German military leaders has had to take it on the lam.

Lewis Outsmarts The Administration, Lawrence Declares

By DAVID LAWRENCE

David Lawrence

WASHINGTON, May 4. — There are two ways of surveying the confusion that surrounds the coal controversy. One is to boil with indignation and vent considerable fury in the direction of John L. Lewis, on the theory that he is acting as a single individual more interested in his cause than the war and so on. The other is to see through the maze of developments the single fact that John Lewis has again out-maneuvered the administration and that he has emerged as the most aggressive champion of organized labor that the country has today.

Mr. Lewis takes all the condemnation and abuse calmly, for he knows that he has outsmarted the administration. He knows that the president has bungled his own labor policy and that most labor leaders will acknowledge this privately, even if they give lip service to Mr. Roosevelt's labor policies publicly.

It is most unfortunate that a man of Lewis's ability and determination isn't working today for Uncle Sam. He would make a far better secretary of labor than Miss Perkins, and if he were working for the United States government, he would be as zealous in its behalf as he is for the United Mine Workers of America.

Wins by Daring

The reason Lewis wins the bouts with the administration is that he has the nerve to expose the fallacies, the contradictory acts, the messy attempts to handle labor by boddling here and there and then by cracking down in a manner that upsets labor union contracts and establishes, all of a sudden, a formula that is supposed to apply rigidly to all situations irrespective of known inequalities and inequitable circumstances.

When the administration issued its now famous "Hold-the-Line Order" on April 8, it made a colossal blunder. The object, of course, was to checkmate Lewis but actually it inspired him to go to the very edge of precipitating a general coal strike, because he knew that other labor leaders felt the "hold-the-line order" was wrong and couldn't be sustained.

New Circumstances Faced

Mr. Lewis doesn't want to see coal mining interrupted. He uses the strike weapon just as a lever to get the demands of his unions accepted. He knew long ago that a threat of a strike would force the mines into the hands of the government. He knew also that in some way the "Little Steel" formula had to be modified or some other concession had to be made to increase the money in the miners' pay envelope. He now faces a new set of circumstances. Publicly, Mr. Lewis calls attention to the fact that the miners have a new employer. This means negotiations for a new wage contract. Will the president ask his own fuel administrator to appear before the War Labor Board—one governmental agency submitting its case to another—when the president's order gives the same fuel administrator complete power over coal mines?

New Agreement Certain

Presumably there will be direct negotiations between the government and both the operators and the miners unions. It matters little how the agreement finally is made —there appears to be a certainty of some kind of new wage agreement. Presumably also the new agreement will be filed as a matter of "face-saving" with the War Labor Board, which will doubtless approve it coincident with the receipt of instructions to modify the "hold-the-line order." For the War Labor Board itself is on record with a request sent to the president for authority to go back to the status of affairs prior to the "Hold-the-Line Order" when certain "inequalities" used to be adjusted.

It will be noted that the president opened the way for this course of events by his statement in Sunday night's radio talk, namely, that if a wage agreement were reached either through the War Labor Board or if the board approved an agreement reached between the miners and the operators, the pay would be retroactive. This could mean that Mr. Lewis may be granted his point in refusing to deal with the War Labor Board except as a tribunal that ratifies an agreement already reached directly between operators and miners.

Truce Extension Possible

The one inexplicable factor in the situation is the so-called "fifteen-day truce." Mr Lewis didn't call it a "truce" at all. Many of the press dispatches did. The fact is Mr. Lewis merely announced that the miners would go back to work, that they had a new employer and that the return to work would be for a fifteen-day period, that is, till other conditions or agreements superseded. There is nothing to prevent an extension beyond that time, as surely something will be done by the fuel administrator in the meantime to bring about a wage settlement.

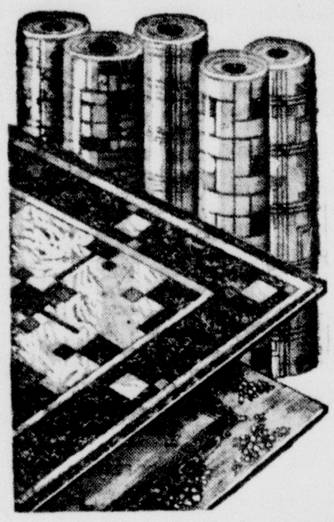

If, when its all over, the miners get more pay—and it appears they will, somehow—you can chalk up another sensational victory for John L. Lewis, who serves his union well for that $25,000-a-year salary which he earns many times over.

MEAT under Rationing

Rationing is just a good old American way of cutting the family pie into even wedges to make it go 'round.

Military demands have become more pressing . . . civilian appetites have been whetted by harder work, and pocketbooks have expanded . . . Lend-Lease needs have become greater.

It is necessary to balance the total military, civilian and Lend-Lease demand for meat against the total supply. Rationing is a way of dividing the civilian part of that supply among all the people.

Conscientious and patriotic American women can make rationing work.

What about meat?

Why is it so important in the diet?

Why should I serve it often?

How many of my red stamps should I spend for it?

Here's the Nutritional Side of It

Good nutrition requires an adequate daily supply of proteins.

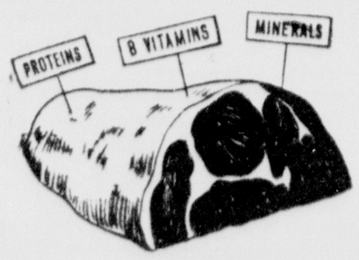

Nutritionists recommend that approximately 12 of the 16 points allowed per person per week under red stamp rationing should go for protein foods—the balance for fats.

If you spend 12 of your 16 points on meat, cheese and canned fish, you'll get approximately 65 per cent of your minimum protein requirement in the form of biologically complete proteins of the highest value.

The balance of the proteins needed for an adequate diet can come readily from nonrationed protein foods such as poultry, eggs, fresh fish, milk, cereals, certain vegetables, and the proteins found in all other foods, except sugar and fats.

Meat has always been man's preferred protein food. Other protein foods of biologic adequacy are: milk, eggs, poultry, fish and cheese. All of these should be used to round out your protein supply.

Among vegetable protein foods, the soybean has the highest nutritive value. Beans, peas and nuts can be used to furnish a portion of the daily protein requirement.

A regular supply of proteins, B vitamins and minerals is dependent upon both for military and civilian diets. These nutritional essentials are not stored in the body to any appreciable extent; must be supplied in the daily foods you eat.

TIPS ON PLANNING RATIONED MEALS

- Spend approximately 12 of your 16 red stamp points on meat and other rationed protein foods.
- Supplement these with nonrationed protein foods.
- Serve meat often, rather than in an occasional "splurge."
- Extend meat with other good foods in such dishes as meat stews, meat pies, hash, croquettes, meat loaves, cereals, spaghetti, macaroni, etc.
- Learn how deliciously you can prepare any of the meat cuts available. (Send for new booklet offered below.)
- Remember, all cuts of meat, regardless of point value, contain the same essential nutrients.

MEAT PRICES—The government has established uniform "ceiling prices" (maximum wholesale and retail cost per pound) on pork. Retailers are required to display retail pork prices, and cannot legally charge more than the amounts shown. Uniform "ceilings" at retail on beef, veal, lamb and mutton are to be put into effect.

Meat supplies complete high-quality proteins with a variety of flavors which appeal to most appetites. You will wish to depend on meat for a major part of your daily protein need. Meat also contains essential B vitamins (thiamine, riboflavin, niacin) and important minerals (iron, copper, phosphorus).

ACCEPTED AMERICAN MEDICAL ASSN. Council on Foods

This Seal means that all nutritional statements made in this advertisement are acceptable to the Council on Foods and Nutrition of the American Medical Association.

You and Your Meat-Man

"Playing the game" with rationing means that you "play the game" with your meat-man too. Not cooperating with your meat-man in the use of those little red stamps undermines the entire war food program.

A housewife who gets meat and other foods without giving stamps, or who gets special cuts of meat at fancy prices, is apt to think that her retailer is simply being considerate of an old and valued customer. She does not realize that she is encouraging her retailer to risk his business reputation, to betray his fellow citizens and to make himself liable to a fine up to $5,000, or up to two years' imprisonment, or both.

The retailer who sticks by his guns and lives up to the regulations is a real patriot and deserves all the support he can get from informed and patriotic consumers.

Here's how law-abiding housewives can help retailers:

1. Buy no meat or other rationed foods except with ration stamps.
2. Pay no more than government ceiling prices which are required, or soon will be required to be posted in all retail stores.
3. Buy only from reputable retailers who obtain their meat exclusively from licensed slaughterers.

Pressure Cookers Available for Home Canners

Pressure cookers will be made available to persons doing the greatest amount of home canning, Miss Maude A. Bean, home demonstration agent for Extension Service in Allegany county, announces.

Before purchasing a pressure cooker it will be necessary to secure a request sheet from the office of the home demonstration agent in the court house. It is important, Miss Bean says, that applicants have a certificate from a dealer or mail-order house, indicating that it will be possible to supply the pressure cooker when the purchase certificate is granted. This certificate from the dealer should be obtained before a purchase certificate will be granted.

The needs of the applicants will be studied by the County Advisory committee composed of Miss Evelyn Miller, home economics teacher; Mrs. Guy Twigg, farm security representative and Miss Bean.

Requests approved by the County Advisory committee will be reviewed and acted upon by the County War Board which will issue application blanks and purchase certificaets to those found to have the greatest need for the pressure cookers. Preference will be given when a group of five or more families will use the same cooker.

BOOK REVIEW IS GIVEN BY MISS WALSH

Three books are indespensable for present day readers, Miss Mary Walsh told members of the Literature Group of the Woman's Civic Club at the meeting yesterday afternoon at the Public Library. They are: "They Were Expendable," by W. L. White; "In the Valley," Hosey; and "One World," Wendell Willkie.

Miss Walsh also reviewed "The Fifth Seal," by the Russian, Mark Aldanov, which she said, was an absorbing account of political intrigue and physical disintegration in pre-war Paris. Practically all the leading characters, she showed, are unhappy old men, conscious that because of various ailments they are all but breathing their last, yet in spite of "one foot in the grave" these old men are all affected in one way or another by the young Russian girl, Nadia, who seems neither good nor bad, but just a young girl and a pretty one who wants to live and have a good time.

Her full skirt ended in a long fan shaped train. Her veil, also an heirloom of rose point was held by a coronet. Her bridal bouquet was of white orchids, roses and stephanotis.

Her maid of honor and bridesmaid were attired in matching gowns of mimosa yellow chiffon and carried bouquets of spring flowers. The little flower girl wore a dress of green silk and carried a basket of yellow rose petals.

The Smart Gift for Mother

Our Barbizon slips, for instance, are tremendously popular because they're many things to all women. Many of you love them because of ingenious fit and fine needlecraft. Others swear by the luxurious fabrics from which they are fashioned. And every one of you appreciates their long and satisfactory service.

But there is also prophetic smartness to Barbizon—the ability to divine the coming trend of outer fashions, and to design slips to fit the new clothes you are going to buy. That's what so many women mean when they say "You can put anything over a Barbizon slip without worry."

This man was taught not to drink water

WATER . . . just plain drinking water . . . is a mighty scarce item to American soldiers now in the North African deserts. And what little water they can find, often isn't fit to drink.

So before our soldiers were landed in Africa, they were put through a stiff course of training to wean them away from drinking water! They were taught to dip water from streams in cups, and add a dash of iodine before drinking. This served the double purpose of disinfecting the water, and of making it taste pretty terrible.

Each time, a heavier dash of iodine was added (but never enough to be dangerous), until finally the soldiers lost all desire for drinking water except in prepared drinks.

An American soldier's favorite drink

The favorite prepared drink of the American soldier is good, old-fashioned lemonade! But how were our boys to carry lemonade around with them?

The Desert Warfare Board found the answer to that one . . . in what they call Field Ration K. This provides three meals for one man, each in a separate box, with a total weight of 33 ounces, and a total value of 3,700 calories.

Field Ration K provides meat three times a day . . . veal luncheon meat for breakfast, pork luncheon meat for dinner at noon, and cervelat sausage at supper time. It provides coffee for breakfast, bouillon for dinner, and a package of lemon juice powder to make lemonade for supper. Ration K also included malted milk tablets, biscuits, a bar of chocolate, and three sticks of chewing gum.

Sounds like "good eatin'" for those American boys in Africa, doesn't it? Makes you feel mighty good to know they're so well cared for! We'll all agree that the best of everything is none too good for our boys!

The things our fighting men need and deserve, cost money. They cost so much money that if we are to provide them, it will mean that each of us will have to invest at least 10 percent of his or her income in War Bonds and Stamps.

Perhaps you are already putting 10 percent of your pay in War Bonds every payday. But can't you boost that 10 percent . . . just a little? You can if you'll try . . . and you'll try all right, if you'll just stop and think how badly that money is needed!

Think, too, about what a swell investment War Bonds are. Safest investment in the world . . . and, for every $3 you invest in War Bonds today, you get back $4 ten years from now!

Physician Advises Worried Ingenue That Time Is Best Cure for Blushing

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Every once in a while some worried ingenue writes me and wants me to prescribe an infallible remedy to prevent blushing. It is, according to these correspondents, embarrassing, their companions make fun of them, they don't like to be teased and they are sensitized to blushing.

I feel very sympathetic toward these people because I was a blusher once myself. I can recommend time as a remedy. I have now reached the stage where my conscience, my self-consciousness, my sensibilities and my emotions are so indurated that even being insulted by Hitler would not cause me to blush.

The medical profession has not paid a great deal of attention to this important physiological experience. The only literature in my possession on the subject is a work by Thomas H. Burgess on "The Physiology or Mechanism of Blushing" (published in 1839).

Dr. Burgess's style is Victorian; he feels that blushing is exemplified "either from timidity during the modest and sensitive days of boyhood or from the conscious feeling of having erred in maturer years." (The latter is something I have never experienced.) Dr. Burgess states also: "Blushing cannot be excited by physical means—only by the passions. We can make an individual laugh against his will by tickling the soles of his feet; we can make him cry by corporal punishment; we can make him tremble with fear; we can arouse his anger by striking him, but we can only make him blush by appealing to his conscience."

Contradictions

He rather contradicts himself a page or so further on when he relates that the face of Charlotte Corday, who was executed during the French revolution, became suffused with a blush after the head was severed from the body. I would be inclined to classify the severance of the head from the body as a physical cause.

He wrote too early to be aware of the physiology of the vasomotor nerves—that is, the nerves which are not under control of the will and which automatically by their impulses can contract the small blood vessels anywhere in the body or dilate them. Yesterday we considered the phenomenon of fainting, in which the blood vessels of the brain contract by action of the vasomotor nerves. Blushing is just the opposite: the capillaries of the skin dilate due to the influence of emotions upon the automatic nervous system.

All People Blush

As a matter of fact blushing should be rather a badge of honor; it shows that all hope of integrity and decency is not lost.

All races blush. It may not be observable in the Negroes, but there

Stock Market Experiences One Of Fastest Springs Since 1940

NEW YORK, May 4 (AP) — The stock market enjoyed one of the fastest springs since early 1940 today and, while numerous issues touched three-year peaks with advances running to 2 points or more, heavy profit taking on the rise put many leaders in the minus column at the close.

Bullish war news from Tunisia, further pressure of idle funds in the wake of the successful government loan drive, together with another batch of cheering earnings statements, received the principal credit for buying inspiration. A little selling cropped up at the last on the idea the coal labor dispute still was unclarified.

The Associated Press average of sixty stocks was up .2 of a point at 50.4, a top since April 15, 1940. It was another of the broadest markets of the past year or so, 998 individual issues being traded. Of these 511 were up, 254 down and 233 unchanged. Transfers or 2,805,294 shares compared with 2,349,090 the day before and were the third largest since May 21, 1940.

Emerging in the "new high" division were American Telephone, American Power & Light, United Corp., Commonwealth & Southern, Twentieth Century-Fox, Alleghany Corp., Philco, Standard Oil (NJ), Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, J. I. Case, United States Rubber, Philip Morris, Eastman Kodak and Allied Chemical.

Losers included United States Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, International Telephone, Goodrich, Deere, General Electric, Westinghouse, Phelps Dodge and Consolidated Edison.

Power and light company stocks were favorites in the biggest curb session since Sept. 11, 1939. The aggregate was 690,480 shares versus 564,185 yesterday. On the upside were American Gas, Cities Service, Creole Petroleum, Gulf Oil and American Cyanamid "B."

It was a day of advancing prices for virtually every type of domestic corporate, government and foreign dollar bonds today. Trading was at the fast clip in more than a month.

Gains among the leaders ran from major fractions to around two points at the best and while profit taking crept into various firm spots late in the session and cut down top marks, most of the advantage was held to the close.

All of the five major departments in the Associated Press averages ended higher with the rails at the best prices since 1937, and industrials, utilities and low-yields equalling the previous 1943 tops. Sales of $25,076,200 were the largest since March 22 and compared with $16,923,400 on Monday.

United States Government bonds offered in the recently concluded Second War Loan drive maintained their premiums over the offering price in outside markets.

Chicago Grain Market

CHICAGO, May 4 (AP)—Trading in wheat was quiet today, but the market maintained a relatively firm undertone.

A brief, easily satisfied flurry of buying orders at the start sent prices fractionally above yesterday's close, and the gains were largely maintained until the finish. Strength in stocks was a sustaining factor in late trading. Earlier strength was believed a reflection of flour sales to the army, and unfavorable crop comments from the Southwest.

Frequent but shallow cultivation or hoeing should be given at seven to ten-day intervals from the time seedlings appear above the ground in the Victory garden until the plants become so large that one cannot move through the rows without injuring the foliage.

Early onions usually do not keep well, therefore, this crop should be used first. Red onions are the best for storage while the yellow varieties are next best.

Look up . . . they need your help!

YOU see American fliers training and patrolling up there every day.

You read anxiously the news of the thousands more who fight in foreign skies the world around.

There is something we at home can do to help these men.

They fly on super high-octane gasoline. It gives them a vital edge in air combat. It adds greatly to the speed and power of their engines. So far as we know, no enemy nation has been able to produce it in such quantities as we have.

Right now the job is to get this fuel to these men in battle. To reach Europe or Africa quickly it must come from the Atlantic Seaboard—cutting shorter the scant supplies of petroleum products here.

Before you drive a needless mile . . . remember this—

American boys are flying and fighting for you. Some of them are dying for you. Oil is their ammunition! . . . Use it wisely.

$85,000 Divided In Commissions, Witness Testifies

BALTIMORE, May 4 (AP) — A naval officer testified today in federal court that he was told that approximately $85,000 in commissions drawn in the name of a woman secretary were divided among two former executives of the Triumph Explosives, Inc., and foreign "outsiders."

The testimony of the officer, Lieut. Comdr. Jacob Stewart Seidman, was given before Judge W. Calvin Chesnut and a jury during the second day of the trial of the two former executives.

The former executives—Gustav H. Kann, former president of the Elkton, Md., munitions plant, and Joseph B. Decker, former vice president — were indicted on charges of using the mails to defraud the company and its stockholders.

Commander Seidman told the court that Kann and Decker told him of splitting the commissions. He added that each of the executives told him they received one-quarter of the $85,000 and that the remainder went to "foreigners" whose identities Kann and Decker did not disclose.

Seidman said his conversations with the defendants occurred last September after he was sent to the plant in connection with a naval investigation concerning renegotiation of government munitions contracts.

Questioned by government prosecutors about the explanation he said Decker had given him of the one-half of the commissions going to outsiders, Seidman testified:

"I think I can give you his exact words. He said 'commander, I won't tell you even if it means I should have to go to jail. There is one assurance I can give you—they are not Americans, they are foreigners who received those amounts.' "

The trial of Kann and Decker is the first of a series of scheduled procesutions of former company officials, brokers and military inspectors growing out of what the government charged was a $1,400,000 war contract fraud at Triumph.

Specific charge in the mail fraud indictment against Kann and Decker was that five checks, representing part of the $85,000 in question were sent through the mails to a Pittsburgh bank.

Hagerstown Nurse Is Eager To Return To Australian Post

BALTIMORE, May 4 (AP)—Thirty days away from her post in an Australian hospital is long enough for Lieut. Frances Sappington, first nurse from a Baltimore hospital unit overseas to return home for a visit.

Lieut. Sappington, a native of Hagerstown, thinks she's lucky that a high-ranking officer needed care on the trip back and that she was chosen. But she says she didn't even want to leave if it meant she couldn't go back.

"I think all the girls out there feel that way about it, and none of them would rather be back in the states. We feel that if we're in the army, we might as well be in foreign service," she said.

For the past ten months, Lieut. Sappington has been one of sixty nurses on duty at a 500-bed hospital in Australia. Her mother, Mrs. Nellie M. Sappington, lives in Hagerstown.

The nurse received her R. N. degree from the University of Maryland hospital in 1937. She was activated as an army nurse on April 25, 1942.

The work in the hospital in Australia is very like that in a Baltimore hospital, she said, except that on the night before Christmas sixty-five patients arrived unexpectedly and all night nurses had to be called to duty. During one period, work was so heavy that the night shift got no time off, she added.

So far, she said, she has been in no danger and hasn't even seen a Jap. But she brought home a Japanese soldier's bugle given her by one of her patients, and she said everybody in the unit expects to come home through Tokyo.

Evans Polls 209 Votes for Third Term Election

Waddell, McLarkie and Hadley Win Seats on Lonaconing Council

LONACONING, May 4 — Receiving a total of 209 votes as against seven write-in ballots, John H. Evans was re-elected for his third term as mayor of Lonaconing in the municipal election held today.

Evans, who was elected in 1941 to fill the unexpired term of Mayor D. Clarkson Laird, continued in the office after the May election, 1942, and now under the new act passed by the Maryland General assembly, will hold office for a two-year term.

Douglas Waddell led the race for councilman with a total of 231 votes, followed by Henry McLarkie who polled a count of 210. The third council post will be filled by James G. Hadley, whose vote totaled 179. Candidate William G. Schaidt received 107 votes. The two leading candidates have been serving in council posts and their re-election gives them with councilman-elect Hadley, office for four years under the new legislative act.

Write-in votes were as follows: for mayor, George Wallis, three; George Eichhorn, Thomas Fisher, Lawrence McKenzie and John W. Marshall, each one; for councilman, John Monahan, Joseph Harris and John W. Marshall each one. No write-in votes were received for bailiff.

A total of 323 ballots were cast in today's election. Registered voters in Lonaconing number 1,197. All the ballots were counted by 9 p. m.

Judges and clerks were Edward Stakem, Daniel Stakem, Adam Muir, Earl Dohme and Samuel James.

The Rev. Francis E. Montgomery, assistant pastor of St. Michael's Catholic church, Frostburg, addressed the large crowd on the spiritual side of the war and our country.

A "V for Victory and Old Glory" drill was performed by members of Pride of Lonaconing Council No. 96, Daughters of America. Mayor and Council Meet

At the monthly business meeting of the mayor and city council last night in the council chamber a communication was received from the Goodwill Volunteer Fire Company No. 1, Lonaconing, asking the town to check the fire hydrants to increase the water pressure.

Councilman Douglas Waddell suggested that the C. and P. be asked to clean the tunnel on Railroad street so that the bridge being constructed by the town near the crossing can be completed.

Councilman Fisher urged that the ordinance for stray dogs be enforced because many complaints have been received of the destruction caused by dogs in the Victory gardens. Owners are asked to not let their dogs run loose during the gardening time.

Mayor Evans stated that the ordinance that no pigs could be kept in corporation would be put in effect as complaints have been made by residents. It was announced that the books would be audited in the near future and all expenses would be made public.

Barrett Says Air Raid Test Was a General Success

BALTIMORE, May 4—(AP)—Col. Henry S. Barrett, state director of air raid precautions, said today that all reports indicated last night's surprise state-wide blackout test had been a "general success."

The only incident that caused confusion during the test, which was of blue - red - blue - red-white sequence, was the holding of a similar blackout in Delaware one hour before the Maryland blackout. A few minutes after the first blue alarm was sounded for Maryland, radio stations announced the white, or all-clear, signal for Delaware.

Some Free Staters, hearing the Delaware all clear signal mistook it for the Maryland signal and turned on their lights. Air raid wardens, however, soon cleared the matter up.

It was the first test blackout in Maryland in which the red signal was sounded twice.

Physician Advises

have been observed cases of Negroes with a small scar on the face which changed color under emotional stress. But if you want to see blushing in full flower, you should study an albino.

The albino is born devoid of pigment. His skin is unnaturally white, the eye has an iris that looks reddish because it has neither brown, black or blue pigment in it, his hair is from birth absolutely dead white.

The lower parts of their skin, however, are well supplied with blood vessels and albinos are prone to blush. Their sensibilities are easily excited and when an emotion stirs them, the natural dead-whiteness of the skin suddenly becomes suffused with color which stretches over the neck and down the arms, growing from pink to red, to blood color, finally to a purplish, hectic blush. Even the eyes take on an appearance as of fire.

Answer: Everyone whom I know who has ever worn contact lenses says that they are perfectly comfortable and cause no irritation. The patient often forgets and goes to sleep with the lenses in place. They have been worn for years without causing any special irritation.

B.C.W.:—What is lichen planus —symptoms and cause?

Answer: Lichen planus is a skin disease of a mild nature which is probably due to an infection. It usually yields to treatment.

Reader: Is it reasonably safe for a woman to risk pregnancy, who has had a minimum amount of tuberculosis, if it is not active, there are now no symptoms and the general health is fine?

Answer: It is perfectly safe.

Theaters Today

'The Desperadoes' Opens Tomorrow at Maryland

It used to be: "That's gold in them thar hills."

Today, "thar's" gold . . . and silver and copper, as well as just plain ordinary reds and blues and greens and yellows and lavendars and every other possible color or shade ever dreamt of by an artist.

Columbia's magnificent new technicolor film, "The Desperadoes," is proof thereof.

An outdoor action epic produced in Utah, the picture opens tomorrow at the Maryland theater with Randolph Scott, Glenn Ford, Claire Trevor, Evelyn Keyes and Edgar Buchanan brings to the screen some of the most breath-taking scenic vistas ever revealed. Color runs riot, as do the actors in this gun-flaming epic of the Old West.

"My Sister Eileen" Opens at Garden

Ruth McKenny's extremly popular book, "My Sister Eileen", has been translated to the screen, and the film version of this comedy opens today at the Garden theater, Faithfully adapted from the Broadway play that was based on Miss McKenny's book, this is one of the top comedies of the year. Rosalind Russell, Brian Aherne and Janet Blair are starred, while George Tobias, Allyn Joslyn and Grant Mitchell have supporting roles.

The co-feature at the Garden today is a revival of "Torrid Zone," starring James Cagney, Academy Award winner this year, Ann Sheridan and Pat O'Brien.

Patsy Kelly Heads All-Star Comedy Cast

Headed by the incomparable zany, Miss Patsy Kelly, a cast of topnotch comedians including Roscoe Karns, Luis Alberni and Maxie Rosenbloom gambol through the new Producers Releasing Corporation release, "My Son, the Hero," which opens tomorrow.

"My Son, the Hero" tells a novel tale of family mixup in a novel manner. Directed at a rapid pace by Edgar G. Ulmer who also had a hand in the writing of the script, the picture records the trials and tribulations of a group of what Damon Runyon terms "brokers," when they are forced to play big shots to impress the son of Roscoe Karns, who is returning from the Pacific war a national hero.

During the growing season keep a daily watch for the appearance of insect pests. Do not wait until the plants are heavily infested with these enemies before beginning dusting or spraying attacks against them.

Red raspberries are more easy to grow than the black or purple varieties. They also require less space. Certain red varieties bear a second crop in the fall.

GAMES FRIDAY
Hyndman at Fort Hill
Paw Paw at Beall

Holding the LaSalle High Explorers to three hits, Gene Gilpin pitched the Fort Hill High Sentinels to a 2-0 victory over the 1942 city champions yesterday afternoon on the Fort Hill diamond in one of the best scholastic games played here in many seasons.

Gilpin, who struck out nine and issued only one base on balls, won the game when his mates rallied in the sixth inning to break a scoreless deadlock. The victory enabled the Sentinels to remain tied for the Tri-State Interscholastic Conference lead with Beall high, of Frostburg, which hammered out a 15-10 triumph over Hyndman high on the latter's field.

In yesterday's other conference tussle, Coach Alfred Fritz's Allegany High Campers, with Lewis Stitcher twirling one-hit ball, turned back the Paw Paw Mountaineers, 8-4, at Paw Paw, W. Va., to sweep the season series with the West Virginians and take over third place in the standing.

Clay Ingram, with singles in the second and fourth, and Charles Cumiskey, with a one-bagger in the fifth, were the only Explorers to solve Gilpin's slants.

Geatz Goes Route

George Geatz, who went the route for LaSalle, hooked up in a mound duel with Gilpin with neither hurler yielding a run until the bottom of the sixth when the Sentinels sent two tallies across to sew up the first intra-city tussle of the season. Geatz was touched for five hits, struck out eight and gave three bases on balls.

Don "Bubbles" Whiteman started off Fort Hill's rally when he singled and stole second. After Ed Lowery fanned, Earl Drenning singled and stole second and Wally Troutman banged out the payoff blow, a single. Gilpin struck out, Charles Conway walked and Fred Davis grounded out, short to first, to end the inning.

LaSalle threatened in the first after one man had retired. Geatz was safe on an error, took second on a fielder's choice and stole third but Jim Fahey struck out to end the threat.

The well-played game lasted only one hour and a half. Gilpin, in registering his third straight victory, faced only twenty-seven men in the seven innings. He was given perfect support in the field. Troutman, Fort Hill first baseman, was the only player to get more than one hit.

AHS Errors Help Paw Paw

The only hit yielded by Stitcher helped Paw Paw to score a run in the fourth when an error by John Cox, a stolen base and Bob Kaylor's single gave the Mountaineers their first tally. The other Paw Paw markers came in the sixth on an error by D. J. Driver, a walk, a fielder's choice, another walk and an error by Stitcher.

Allegany manufactured two runs in the first when Cox singled and stole second, Bill Raupach singled and stole second and Don "Lefty" Lee also banged out a one-baser.

Four Camper runners crossed the plate in the fourth on an error, a single and stolen base by Lewis Baker, Roy Taylor's single, a single and stolen base by Stitcher and an error by Roland Taylor. The other two Allegany markers were registered in the sixth when Baker was hit by a pitched ball, Taylor tripled for the longest blow of the afternoon and Reynolds singled.

Two Loop Games Friday

Bobby Williams and Raupach, each with two for four, and Taylor, with two for three, sparked Allegany's eleven-hit assault.

Beall and Hyndman each collected a dozen hits but eleven Hyndman errors helped the Mountaineers win and remain in a tie for first place. The Frostburg nine won the game in the fifth when it counted ten runs on a hit batsman, four hits, five bases on balls and six errors. Hyndman was leading 7-5 when Beall went on the warpath.

George Cook had three hits for Hyndman with James Pick and Harden each smashing a triple. Lou Skidmore poled a home run for Beall with the bases jammed while Roger Day collected a pair of doubles.

The conference race resumes Friday afternoon when Fort Hill will entertain Hyndman and Paw Paw will meet Beall at Frostburg. Allegany and LaSalle will step outside the circuit Friday with the Campers tangling with Romney in a return contest at Campobello and the Ex-

Probable Field For Preakness Reduced to Four

Eleven Fillies Named for Today's $10,000 Pimlico Oaks

By DONALD SANDERS

BALTIMORE, May 4 (AP)—Pretty well convinced that the fifty-third running of the Preakness stakes on Saturday would produce only a contest for second money behind the speedy Court Fleet, Pimlico racing fans looked to the twenty-first running of the $10,000-added Pimlico Oaks tomorrow to provide the best contest of Maryland's biggest racing week.

Despite Count Fleet's comparatively slow time in the Kentucky derby, the class of Mrs. John D. Hertz's color bearer apparently had frightened off all but three colts.

This trio included Allen T. Simmons's Blue Swords, second in the derby, and two home-breds, W. L. Brann's Vincentive and H. L. Strauss's New Moon.

One colt which had been considered a possible Preakness starter—Belair stud's Bossuet—won at Jamaica yesterday, but the son of Boswell will not be shipped here.

For one of the few times in the history of the $50,000-added Preakness, no fillies were made eligible for that race, but virtually every top-flight filly of 1942 was listed among the eleven racers named to face the barrier in the mile and one-sixteenth Oaks which will feature tomorrow's Pimlico program.

All will be equally burdened under 121 pounds.

Heading the Oaks entries is Askmenow, the Hal Price Headley colorbearer, which topped the juvenile filly division last year. The brown daughter of Menow won the rich Selima stakes at Laurel and was second to Occupation in the Belmont futurity, where she bested Count Fleet.

Her stablemate, Who Me, is also named for the Oaks.

Another favorite is Anthony Pelleteri's La Reigh, winner of the Adirondack and Betsy Ross stakes last year. La Reigh ran an impressive race in the tuneup Regret purse here last week, although she finished second to Vincent Cicero's Sr.'s Royal Flush, another Oaks entry.

Others named to face the starter are Christiana stables' Bras, Mrs. John Fisher, Jr.'s Gloriana, Louis B. Mayer's Samaritan, King Ranch's Too Timely, Harry Stutts's Spartiate, H. F. Guggenheim's Good Morning and George D. Widener's Pomrose.

If all go to the post, the value to the Oaks winner will be $10,475.

New Moon Possible Starter

The heavily-favored Preakness candidate, Court Fleet, is due for a slow five furlong breeze tomorrow.

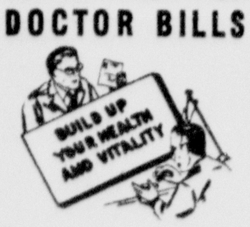

"I'll open him up Friday morning," Trainer Don Cameron said before leaving for Jamaica. "That's all he'll need after that mile and a quarter derby."

The Preakness is a sixteenth of a mile shorter than the Blue Grass classic.

New Moon, the Straus racer regarded as a likely Preakness starter, finished second to the Glen Riddle farm's Strategic in the $2,500 Survivor stakes today. New Moon was the only Preakness eligible in the mile and a sixteenth test.

One other possible starter, W. E. Boening's Slide Rule, was shipped to New York after running third in the derby, and his handlers had not decided whether he would go in the Preakness.

Cardinals Pound Four Cub Hurlers For 11-3 Victory

Redbirds Pile Up Early Lead; Fifth Loss in Row for Bruins

CHICAGO, May 4—(AP)—The 1942 baseball and the St. Louis Cardinals made their first 1943 appearances in Chicago simultaneously and with telling effect today.

Pounding four Cub pitchers for fifteen hits, including a homer and two singles by George (Whitey) Kurowski, the Cards piled up a huge early lead to rout the Chicagoans, 11 to 3, in the opening game of their series. Tonight the Cubs, with five straight defeats behind them, weren't so sure bringing back the old ball was such a good idea.

The only solace the Cubs could eke out against Southpaw Ernie White was to break their string of twenty-three scoreless innings in the fifth and to wind up with ten hits, including doubles by Stan Hack, Eddie Stanky, Lenny Merullo and Stu Martin. With Jimmie Brown and Lou Klein hitting triples for the Cards, the 3,908 fans saw twenty-five hits go for thirty-six bases.

Six walks, two hit batsmen and three errors behind them didn't add to the peace of mind of the four righthanders who shared the Cub discomfort.

The Cards scored nine of their runs off Eddie Hanyzewski and Bill Fleming in the first four innings. Centerfielder Harry Walker twice singling in two runs, once with the bases loaded off Hanyzewski in the first and then with two on off Fleming in the fourth. In between, Brown's triple keyed two runs off Hanyzewski in the second. Kurowski's homer came off Fleming after Ray Sanders singled in the third and a hit batsman and singles by White and Brown added another in the same frame. Later Henry Wyse and Paul Erickson were each touched for a run. The box:

Navy Tossers Blank Dartmouth Nine, 8-0

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 4 (AP) — Behind the one-hit twirling of Paul Burdette, Navy's baseball team pounded out an 8-0 win over Dartmouth. This was Navy's second victory over the Indians in as many days.

Despite Burdette's seven passes, Navy was able to keep a man from crossing the plate. He officially faced twenty-five batters who were only able to get one bingle—by Joe Vancisin in the third inning.

The Tars collected seven bingles off Lefty Grunditz for a total of four runs before he was relieved in the sixth by Bob Bowman, who was treated in the same rough manner as he allowed seven safeties in the final three frames.

Frey Is Batting Sensation of '43 In National Loop

Little Cincinnati Second Baseman Has Fashioned .467 Average

NEW YORK, May 4 (AP)—Lonnie Frey, the little Cincinnati second baseman who always has been known as a dangerous hitter but never a persistent one, is the batting sensation of the spring in the National League.

While more famous sockers have been moaning about the balata ball Frey has been quietly fashioning a .467 batting average which at the close of business Monday was the best in the majors.

Some of his hitting, of course, has been done with last year's ball which was brought back into use by various National League clubs but the Cincinnati club was one of the last in the league to receive a supply of the lively pellets and it seems probable that Frey has received less advantage from it than many other candidates for hitting honors.

Based on twenty or more times at bat including Monday's games, the ten leading hitters in the senior circuit were Frey, Danny Litwhiler, Philadelphia .409; Clyde Kluttz, Boston .400; Eric Tipton, Cincinnati .359; Billy Herman, Brooklyn .357; Charley Workman, Boston .357; Merrill May, Philadelphia .355; Johnny McCarthy, Boston .346; Arky Vaughan, Brooklyn .340; Joe Burns, Boston .333; and Eddie Joost, Boston .333.

Frey also leads the league in total hits with twenty-one and is tied with Herman for the most runs scored, nine. Herman leads in doubles with five and McCarthy is tied with Jim Russell for the most triples, three.

Litwhiler has hit three home runs, two more than any other batter in the league. Vaughan has batted in the most runs, ten, two more than Teammate Mickey Owen.

Six players are tied for the most stolen bases with two apiece.

Rip Sewell, of Pittsburgh, has stepped out in front of other National League pitchers by winning three games without a setback. Johnny Vander Meer, of the Reds, has won three, but lost one, while four hurlers have 2-0 records.

Western Maryland Defeats Catholic

WESTMINSTER, Md., May 4 (AP) —Western Maryland college's baseball team defeated Catholic university, of Washington, 4 to 3, today on Art O'Keeffe's ninth-inning single.

The Green Terrors of Western Maryland took a 3 to 2 lead in the sixth inning, but Catholic U. came back in the eighth to knot the score at three-all.

The Terrors then loaded the bases in the latter half of the ninth, and O'Keeffe cleared the bags with a rousing hit, although only the first run to cross the plate was scored officially.

Lee Lodge pitched the full nine innings for the home team, giving up eight scattered hits while his mates collected eleven.

More than 300 contestants entered the first field day events at Keesler Field, Miss.

Cincinnati Plugs Left-Field Hole

Eric Tipton, Unlike Predecessors, Can Field and Hit

CINCINNATI, May 4 (AP)—For five years the Cincinnati Reds have been pouring money—from $100,000 to $500,000, according to who may be believed—into the field, but they think they've found the plug for the rat hole at last.

The plug is young Eric Tipton. Unlike half his predecessors, Eric can field acceptably. Unlike the other half, he can hit. At least he's hitting .359 so far, including a week of swinging at what causes such a howl from major league batters and money counters.

Whatever his luck this year, the Reds are certain of keeping him. Uncle Sam has turned him down thrice for the navy and once for the army, because of a perforated ear drum and color blindness.

While he had three brief trial with the Philadelphia Athletics since 1939, Tipton is up for his first real test this year. He hit .309 for Kansas City in the American Association in ninety-one games last year, then came to the Reds in mid-season and hit only .222 in sixty-three games.

Despite this, the Cincinnati front office lays great store on his potentialities. The manpower situation being what it is, they expect him to be a 4-F steady in left field for the duration.

Jess Flores, A's Rookie, Tops Nats

PHILADELPHIA, May 4 (AP) — Rookie Jess Flores pitched a three-hitter today as the Athletics defeated Dutch Leonard and the Washington Senators, 3 to 1. It was the second victory in three starts for the little Mexican.

Flores now has worked 32 2-3 innings, yielding a total of eleven hits and three runs. After losing a two-hitter to the Red Sox, 1 to 0, he hurled 15 2-3 innings against Washington a week ago and won in the sixteenth, 2 to 1.

A base on balls, a two-base hit which Outfielder Johnny Welaj misjudged and a long fly produced the Senators' run in the first inning. In the sixth Welaj scored the tying run on a wild throw by Ellis Clary, and Pete Suder singled the winning score home. Suder doubled with two aboard for another tally in the eighth.

Two of Washington's hits came in the eighth, but a double play started by Suder, ended the threat. The box:

Orioles Sweep Series

BALTIMORE, May 4 (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles made it a clean sweep of a four-game series with the Buffalo Bisons, defeating their International League rivals, 4 to 1, today.

The Buffalo hurler, Floyd Giebell, allowed the Orioles but six hits, but was the victim of ragged support in the eighth when Baltimore scored all its runs on one hit and three Bison miscues.

Buccaneers Even Series with Reds

CINCINNATI, May 4 (AP)—A three-run first inning, including Vince DiMaggio's two-ply homer, started Pittsburgh's Pirates on their way to an 8-3 victory over Cincinnati today to even the current series one-all.

The Rhinelanders outhit their foe, 13 to 9, but except for three innings Rookie Xavier Resigno held them in the palm of his hand for his first win of the year.

The first Pirate scoring was built on Jim Russell's double, an infield out and Bob Elliott's two-base blow, followed by DiMaggio's wallop over the left field fence—first homer of the year at Crosley field.

Singles by Johnny Barrett and Bob Elliott and walks to Elbie Fletcher and DiMaggio sent Ray Starr to the shower in the third. The box:

Spanish Program Is Given at Allegany By State Teachers

A program of Spanish songs and dances was presented at the senior assembly of Allegany high school yesterday by the Maryland State Singers, a mixed chorus of twenty-four students from Frostburg State Teachers College, under the direction of Prof. and Mrs. Maurice J. Matteson.

Members of the chorus were attired in attractive Spanish costumes and all announcements were in Spanish.

Prof. John L. Dunkle, principal of the college, addressed the seniors, stressing the need for teachers and appealing to the girls particularly.

Prizes for participation in a wide range of sports are being given at several army air force fields. Awards are based on percentage of squadrons' members competing and on the number of sports in which various squadron teams or individuals participate.

Count Fleet Will Win Triple Crown, Writer Believes

Hertz Colt Won by 30 Lengths in Last Baltimore Outing

By MAX HILL

NEW YORK, May 4 (AP)—The last time we saw Dave Woods he was in a hardware store near Pimlico buying a couple of cans of paint, and it wasn't an accident that the colors he wanted were black and yellow.

That's a nice custom they have there at Baltimore's hospitable horse park—painting the weather vane in the colors of the Preakness winner. Mr. Woods insisted he wasn't playing a hunch a week ahead of time but black and yellow happen to be the brilliant silks of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Hertz, who own Count Fleet.

Count Fleet already is in Baltimore with an easy win in the Kentucky derby already to his credit.

That's only the first leg on the triple crown, but what is left to make the Preakness more than an exercise gallop for him? After that he will tie up again with a couple of his already vanquished rivals in the Belmont stakes, and we think he can win all three with Johnny Longden, his jockey, just sitting still like he was taking it easy in a rocking chair.

Pimlico is preparing for a bumper crop of fans this Saturday, no matter what sort of opposition is provided for the Fleet. It will be worth the price of admission just to watch him in a workout, which is just what the Preakness may be.

The last time the Hertz colt turned it on in Baltimore he was out there all by himself with thirty lengths of daylight showing between him and the second horse. That was in the Walden last Autumn.

It's a little early to turn loose much fancy talk about another wonder horse, but the railbirds think this colt may fill the bill before winter. Some say he will be up there on a pedestal with Man O' War and Seabiscuit and Gallant Fox and Equipoise and the others.

Just remember, however, that racing holds its own with women and the weather for being uncertain, and that every so often a horse just gets out of kilter without any reason the best of trainers can put a finger on.

That's one thing in the Count's favor. Don Cameron, his trainer, knows a lot more about his charges than most of the men in that business. Until the husky and genial Cameron came along late in 1938, Mr. and Mrs. Hertz did their best to dig up a different handler for their string every month in the year. A trainer hired by Hertz usually kept his hat on, walked in the front door of the stable and then scurried out the back to start looking for another job.

Not Cameron. The Hertzes had a star in their barn then, too, but he was ailing and hadn't run a lick since he won the Saratoga cup in the summer of 1937. The more Cameron watched Count Arthur work, the more perplexed he became. The horse was sound, but he always wound up with some leisurely looks at the stretch turn.

Finally, he got to the bottom of the trouble. That's an accurate description. One leg was shorter than the others. In fact, both front hooves had been pared too close by an overzealous shoer.

Cameron fixed the trouble with a special set of leather pads, which fit inside the front shoes. They also provided a yielding cushion for tender spots.

Trainer Pampers Count

Then he trucked Count Arthur off to Pimlico for the Governor Bowie handicap and saw his charge leave everything else behind for his first stake victory of the year. Now to replace this earlier son of Reigh Count, Cameron has Count Fleet, who seems to be as sound as they come and able to take it.

The first time the Fleet was out this year was at Jamaica. It was cold and windy and the track was sloppy. The skeptics thought he was a cinch scratch. But he showed up, meekly going along through the brown slush to the saddling shed. Cameron had a quick answer:

"Hell, he ain't made of salt is he? He won't melt in that wind and water. Or if he does, I'll be surprised."

Even so, Cameron pampers his pet no end, and while you and I may be rationed on our sugar the Fleet isn't. He gets his couple of lumps each morning without fail because if he doesn't he begins to fret and fume.

All spring long Cameron has been receiving gifts of sugar for the Fleet, but it only goes into the stable coffee. Cameron explained why with a smile.

"I'm not taking any chances," he said. "I use my own for him."

The Count has punched so many holes in the three-year-old fields this year that you can look for a small entry list on the Preakness, and most of them will be in there with an eye on second or third money, figuring the winner is the same thing as home now.

Cleveland Shades White Sox, 2 to 1

CLEVELAND, May 4—(AP)—Lanky Jim Bagby grabbed his third straight triumph for Cleveland with a steady five-hit, 2 to 1, decision today over the punchless Chicago White Sox.

It took a quartet of fifth-inning singles off Bill Dietrich for the Indians' winning run, since Ray Mack and Lou Boudreau both were thrown out at the plate by Thurman Tucker, rookie Chicago centerfielder.

Bagby got off to a shaky start, walking Luke Appling and Joe Kuhel with one down in the first inning, and Appling scored on Julius Solters's pop single. The box:

Braves Win 5-3; Jim Tobin Stars

BOSTON, May 4—(AP)—Big Jim Tobin pitched and batted the Boston Braves to a 5 to 3 victory over the New York Giants today with the help of Rookie Charley Workman, who hit a two-run homer in the third inning.

Tobin drove in Boston's other runs, two with a single in the second stanza and one with another single in the sixth. Johnny McCarthy also figured in the Braves' offensive with three of their seven hits.

Tobin held the Giants to six hits, but three of them were doubles for three runs in the sixth. Buster Maynard and Nick Witek opened with successive two-baggers for a run. With one out, Mel Ott walked and Sid Gordon doubled for another. Then Billy Jurges brought Ott home with a fly. The box:

Yankees Defeat Red Sox, 4 to 3, In Ninth Inning

Chandler Gains Second Victory of Season, Keeps Mates in Lead

NEW YORK, May 4—(AP)—The New York Yankees squeezed out a 4 to 3 victory over the Boston Red Sox today to continue half a game in front of the Cleveland Indians in the American League.

It took a ninth inning run on two hits and a long fly by Johnny Lindell, however, to capitalize on the six-hit hurling of Spud Chandler, who gained his second victory of the season.

The Yankees made nine hits and bunched five of them for three runs off Joe Dobson in the first two frames.

Because Rookie George Stirnweiss was hit on the elbow by a pitched ball in batting practice, Oscar Grimes played shortstop for New York and led off with a single in the first inning. Roy Weatherly sacrificed and Charlie Keller singled for a run.

Ken Sears and Lindell started the second with singles, Chandler sacrificed, and Weatherly singled to right to bring both runners home.

Meanwhile, the Red Sox got two unearned tallies in the top half of the second after two were out. Catcher Roy Partee singled, Dobson was hit by a pitch and Eddie Lake singled to fill the bases. Two runs then came across as Third Baseman Bill Johnson fumbled Tom McBride's grounder.

With two out in the seventh, Partee tripled and Dee Miles, pinch-hitting for Dobson, brought him home with the tying run.

Mace Brown, who took over in the seventh for the Sox, gave up the deciding run and was charged with the loss. Johnson beat out a short grounder for a hit, Sears singled him to third and Lindell's fly brought him over the plate. The box:

Phillies Defeat Brooklyn, 3 to 1

BROOKLYN, May 4 (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies climbed out of the National League cellar today with a 3 to 1 triumph over the Brooklyn Dodgers in the Major Leagues' first twilight game of the season.

Lefty Jack Kraus, a former Dodger farmhand who was traded to the Phillies for Bob Bragan this spring, pitched five-hit ball for his second success over the club that let him go.

His victim was Frank (Rube) Melton, whom the Dodgers obtained from the Phillies during the winter, thus giving the Phillies the upper hand at least for the present in the bartering between the two clubs.

Melton pitched no-hit ball till Earl Naylor led off the seventh with his second home run of the season. An error and a triple by Danny Murtaugh gave Philadelphia another run before the inning was over and in the ninth singles by Murtaugh and Ron Northey and a fly by Dan Litwhiler accounted for an additional run off Newt Kimball.

Kraus's bid for a shutout was spoiled in the ninth when Dixie Walker doubled and Joe Medwick singled. The box:

Tigers Turn Back St. Louis Browns

ST. LOUIS, May 4 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers chased veteran Southpaw Al Hollingsworth to the showers in less than two innings today, scoring four runs in the meantime, then hung on for dear life to eke out a 4 to 3 triumph over the St. Louis Browns.

It was definitely an off day for Hollingsworth. He gave up seven hits, two of them doubles, and a walk in one and two-thirds innings. Three Browns pitchers held the Tigers to three safeties the remainder of the contest.

The Browns were held effectively by Virgil Trucks until the seventh frame when they pounced on him for three successive singles and an outfield fly for two runs. They scored on a walk and Chet Laabs's double in the eighth. Trucks was replaced by Dizzy Trout who held the St. Louis club hitless the final inning. The box:

Dr. Garry Myers Wouldn't Outlaw Rod in Schools

Teachers Should Use Caution if Corporal Punishment Permitted

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

In some states the teacher is forbidden by law to lay a hand on the child to restrain him. In local school communities of some other states, the board of education has outlawed all forms of corporal punishment in the school.

In general, some very positive good has come from these prohibitions. Teachers have had a strong motive to find positive measures for controlling children at school. The attention of teachers and of those who train and supervise teachers has centered on trying to understand the child, win his cooperation, and help him enjoy success at learning.

Defiant Pupils

Most children have responed favorably to the milder, motivating ways. Nevertheless, a few children, alas, have not. Now and then a school child, who knows his teacher is forbidden ever to resort to corporal punishment, will openly defy the most reasonable direction or command of the teacher, even brag and dare the teacher to do anything about it. In this attitude he may be aided and abetted by his parents.

You have read in the public press of some recent samples of shameful tragedies in a few classrooms where the rod has been outlawed for several decades.

Moreover, where the teacher or principal has no authority to use corporal punishment in extreme cases, he has, as a last resort, expelled the child from school. Might not a good paddling early enough have saved some of these youngsters for good citizenship?

Absolutely no corporal punishment at school might easily have worked well everywhere if all children were properly disciplined at home, especially in the early years.

Respect for Authority

But with more children year by year entering school without having learned to respect authority at home, thanks to the doctrine of no spanking at any age, there are increasing numbers of school children who have never learned the alphabet of restraint. How are teachers going to tame all these barbarians without some use of physical force? These children are not limited to underprivileged or undereducated homes. Indeed, the country over, home restraints have relaxed most, it seems, in the upper groups.

When I am asked before conventions of teachers if I advise corporal punishment at school, I reply that while I wish corporal punishment were not forbidden at school, I would advise a teacher not to resort to it, except in physical self-defense, and, as a rule ,only on advice of principal or superintendent and in his presence and preferably with the child's parents present. "Even then," I add, "for your own protection and that of the school, I should proceed very cautiously."

By all means, I would condemn at home or school corporal punishment for mistakes or lags in learning from books.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. My baby is six months old. When should I begin training her to drink from a cup?

A. Now. Occasionally offer her water, fruit juice or milk in a cup, gently putting it to her mouth. Make sure not to stir up resistance in her. Remove the cup when she strongly objects, but keep patiently at it, being glad if you get complete cooperation after several months or even a year.

Q. When my girl, two, is in another room and I call to her she rarely answers me. This makes me very angry.

A. It shouldn't. You should know better than to expect her always to answer you at this age. It would be better never to command or request a child of any age when not face to face with him. Distance lends to disobedience.

So much softball play in expected at Randolph Field, "The West Point of the Air," that a school for softball umpires is now being conducted in a field hangar.

Eyes of new-born babies tend to turn out; they have to learn how to turn the eyes in to focus on objects, the Better Vision Institute says.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

SHORT SUIT WORKS, TOO

SQUEEZES ARE ordinarily operated by the final card of a long suit, on which the opponents have already had to make a series of discards until finally one of them is disastrous. In some rare cases, they can be operated by a short suit, perhaps a suit in which you take only a single trick, the one which does the squeezing. This play can be indexed by previous discards on a different suit, showing that one opponent has given up his protection in one suit in order to guard two others.

(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♦	Pass
2 ♣	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 NT

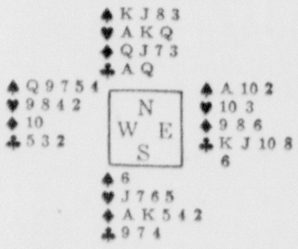

Just a little hazardous, South's No Trump bid, but a good gamble, as North was pretty sure to have something of value in his hand outside of his club suit, and the most likely place was hearts.

West was scared away from clubs by North's bid of the suit, so opened the spade 3. After the Q won that, South decided to go all out for as many tricks as possible. He came to his hand with the diamond A, scored the club A and then tried the finesse of that suit while it was without risk. The J won, next the K, and then came the balance of the diamonds, while he watched the discards. East's first two sloughs were the heart 7 and 2, to show he intended to protect that suit. West responded by trashing his heart 8, heart J and then the club 10 and spade 9.

With his best two spades and club Q left, West was ruined then when South led the heart 5 toward the A, having held also the spade 5 and club 8 in the dummy, and the spade A-8 in his own hand. If West had discarded his club Q on this heart, the 8 would have won the twelfth trick in dummy and the spade A would have been the thirteenth. So he discarded his spade J. Thereupon South came from the dummy with the spade 5 to the A dropping the K, and the 8 scored the final trick. The squeeze had been scored by a suit in which only one trick was taken by the squeezer.

Tomorrow's Problem

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

If North bids nothing except No Trumps and South diamonds, what is East's soundest lead if North winds up in 3-No Trumps, and what if he gets into 6-No Trumps? Why, in each case?

The BLIND MAN'S SECRET
by RICHARD HOUGHTON
WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

CHAPTER FORTY

"WILLARD WAS right," Agatha said. "It's not safe for you around here. That spy merely followed me, but if you had happened to take that letter to the mailbox, you might not have come back!"

"But you were the one he kidnaped first. How do you know he's after me?"

"Who was the man?"

"I couldn't tell. He wore a hat pulled low, and from this second-story window I was looking down so I couldn't see his face."

"It must be someone who overheard what Hans said to us in the lunchroom."

"What did Hans Putnam say that would . . . ."

"Have you forgotten already? You must be upset! He was suspicious because we were so sure the radio tube in Dr. Hill's office was the wrong one. He hinted we might still have the one that's wanted. If a spy overheard him . . ."

"But there was no one else in the lunchroom. No one could have overheard—except Mr. Marsh."

"Mr. Marsh! Clemantine, he looks like a foreigner! And that wire from the microphone in your closet—it led toward the lunchroom. What better place for a spy to make his headquarters? Why, he would hear every bit of gossip on the campus!"

"Oh dear!" Clemantine sat down on the bed. "Do you suppose that's why he had a blind dishwasher—because there's something that shouldn't be seen?"

"It all adds up so logically. What other answer could there be?"

"But—but why hasn't someone thought of that before? I'm sure the police and federal men have gone into all the possibilities. They're swarming all over the place."

Agatha's hands went to her face as she burst into tears with emotion she could not control. "Oh, Clemantine, come home with me! I'm so afraid—and you will be dragged into it!"

"Auntie!" The girl sprang from the bed. Agatha felt her warm arms around her. "Don't go to pieces now. You've been such a brick. You're tired. There's nothing to be afraid of!"

Agatha drew a deep breath. She wiped her eyes with the handkerchief Clemantine handed her. "You're right. The federal men probably have their eyes on that spy. They're probably waiting for him to trip himself up—as they are waiting for the murderer to trip her—himself up! But there's no need for you to stay here today. You're not going to classes. Come home with me, Clemantine. I—I need you!"

"All right. I'll telephone to the railroad station and find out when the next train leaves for Bardsdale."

Clemantine went out into the hall. Agatha looked in the mirror. Her eyes were sunk in dark circles. She looked so haggard she shocked herself. How could anyone look at her and not guess the truth? She must leave this place, immediately!

Clemantine returned. "The ticket agent says there's no train until noon. Four hours to wait."

"Is it a through train?"

"No. There will be another wait of about two hours in Braxton. Remember, that's the place where you couldn't make connections."

"I'll never forget!"

It was that long wait in Braxton—five hours on the night schedule—that had made it possible for her to do what she had to do—that had given her the flimsy alibi no one had yet seen through. But had they seen through it? How about the blind man? He seemed to possess a sixth sense. He did not need to see. Was he trying to help her or trap her?

Everything was so confused. She could not think.

"Better lie down," suggested Clemantine gently. "Try to get some sleep."

"Sleep!"

They waited. Clemantine packed her things slowly into a small suitcase, one of those absurdly light and sensible things Agatha had heard described as airplane luggage.

The girls in the rooming house noisily went to breakfast and classes. Agatha, for want of anything else to do, watched them from the window as they crossed the street. She noticed a man sitting in a parked car at the opposite curb, reading a paper. At least, he tried to make out he was reading the paper. From the way he turned his head at intervals she knew he was watching the house!

From where the man sat he would be unable to see the rear of the house, or the side entrance. Did that indicate there was another watcher on the side street?

When the fat girl was gone, and Clemantine stepped downstairs to inform her landlady she'd be away overnight, Agatha slipped into the adjoining room, whose window looked out on the side street. Yes—a man was hoeing weeds along the gutter, and Agatha felt sure he didn't belong there. No one would dare work so slowly for wages.

She and Clemantine would have no chance to get away through the front door—not when the guard there had an automobile. But perhaps they could trick the fellow at the side entrance. If they could call a taxi, meet it on the run.

The men might not be spies. They might be the police. Agatha didn't know which she feared more. All she wanted was to get away. Perhaps the rest of her life would be spent in flight. She didn't dare think of that now.

But she must convince Clemantine the watchers were spies. It would not be difficult. They were dark visaged men—what she could see of their faces. They looked foreign, as many good Americans do.

When Clemantine returned Agatha informed her of their plight.

The girl paled, but she was no coward. "I wouldn't trust a taxi driver to do exactly as we want," she said. "I'll telephone Hans Putnam. I happen to know he has an old car—with plenty of speed. And it won't look as obvious as a taxicab."

In five minutes it was all arranged. Hans would drive up to the side gate at exactly 11:30. They'd run out the side door and jump into his car.

Luckily he didn't suggest calling the police. Perhaps, Agatha thought, the idea of rescuing Clemantine by himself appealed to him. He didn't know about John. He'd be a hero in her eyes. Everyone wanted to save Clemantine, even the blind boy, Selfish creatures!

The wait was almost unbearable, but 11:25 finally dragged around. Carrying their light baggage they fled down the back stairs and out into the rear garden, which was enclosed by a high, thick hedge. They tiptoed to the wicket gate and waited. The man with the hoe could not see them. Agatha kept an eye on him through the foliage.

Hans' old car rattled down the street. No vehicle could arouse less suspicion. The watcher did not even look up until the car halted at the gate. By then he was too late. Hans flung the door open. Agatha and Clemantine leaped in. Almost before they hit the torn cushions the car jumped forward. Agatha grasped for support as they turned a corner on two wheels and headed for town.

"We'll trick him!" grinned Hans, looking back as he took another corner in a perilous skid. He dodged across the main street and into a private yard, sliding to a stop.

"We'll wait here a minute and see what happens."

"Here he comes!" whispered Agatha. That's the car that was parked in front of the house."

"And he's going past without seeing us!" breathed Clemantine.

Hans slipped his gears into reverse. "When he comes back, we won't be here."

Firemen Pension Measure Hearing Scheduled Today

City Opposes Bill Increasing Payment Two per Cent to Fund

A public hearing on Senate Bill No. 457, which provides for an increase in the contribution of the mayor and council of Cumberland to the fire department pension bill, will be held at 2 o'clock p. m., in the state house, Annapolis, by Governor Herbert R. O'Conor.

Senator Robert B. Kimble yesterday said that under the provisions of the bill, members of the Fire department would still pay three per cent of their rated salaries or wages to the fund, but the mayor and council would have to pay five per cent.

At present, the Cumberland city officials pay only three per cent to match the contribution of the firemen.

Signing the bill, according to Kimble, will be opposed at the hearing by the mayor and council.

Opposition to the bill has been voiced by the mayor and council in a letter forwarded to the governor. The local fire department will be represented at the hearing.

The hearing on the firemen's pension measure is one of a series Governor O'Conor has scheduled with various local county officials on controversial legislative measures which remain for his approval or veto.

National War Fund Organization Is Explained by Rule

Local War Fund Group Will Organize Campaign at Later Date

Members of the county War Chest Appeals committee heard Victor Rule, state representative of the National War Fund, Inc., explain the operation of that organization in raising war relief funds for nineteen agencies certified as being worthy.

Rule said the National War Fund investigates each agency to determine their program and how it is administered. The organization certifies only those agencies which produce evidence of sound administration and effective results.

"We have black markets in foods and other articles," Rule pointed out, "and we also have black markets in the fund-raising field." There are some 200 organizations in this country which are engaged in soliciting funds, he said. Some of these are not worthy of receiving the public support, he added.

The National War Fund, Inc., receives a list of agencies which are reported to the State department and members of the president's committee certify those which meet certain standards. By consolidating the agencies which are bona fide, overhead and effort is concentrated in one movement and the public is assured their money is used for the exact purpose for which it is given.

The local group decided to wait until after the Community Chest campaign is completed before they meet again to set up their organization in this county. Rule will return here at that time to assist.

Railroads Will Meet New Tests, J. V. Thomas Says

Representative of Railway Association Speaks to Rotary Club

Will American railroads be able to handle a tremendously increased transportation burden this year made necessary by the war program?

That question was answered with an emphatic affirmative yesterday at the weekly luncheon of the local Rotary club at the Central Y. M. C. A., by J. Vernon Thomas, of Baltimore, representative of the American Railway Asscociation.

The American rail systems, greatest in the world, have met all tests to which they have been put in the last several years and they are prepared to meet all new requirements, Thomas said.

First Test Came in 1941

The first test in this global war period came in 1941, the speaker noted, when the railroads moved six per cent more freight than the previous record with twenty per cent fewer cars despite the fact that they had 600,000 fewer cars and 16,000 fewer locomotives.

That, however, was not a circumstance alongside of what was done in 1942, Thomas said, when thirty-three per cent more freight cars were moved than the high mark with an addition of only one per cent of the rolling stock and passenger traffic went up eighty-three per cent.

This year, it was declared, the roads will be expected to handle a still more difficult job with a further increase of twenty-five per cent in passenger travel and twelve per cent in freight traffic.

This will be done, Thomas declared, because the roads have prepared themselves by working hard for increased speed, safety, efficiency and service.

Vital Part of War Program

Rail transportation represents the major part of one of the three vital parts of the war program, it was pointed out, the three being strategy, tactics and logistics, the last having to do with movement of material. Perhaps logistics is the most important, Thomas said, as Gen. Sommervell has characterized this war as one of transportation.

The railroads must be allowed to strengthen financial position, Thomas said, not only for handling the war traffic, but also for putting themselves in good condition for the post war period. Also, the WPB must realize their importance by giving them adequate priorities for maintenance of existing equipment and for needed additions.

Another thing needed to preserve and protect the railroad systems of the country, it was declared, is a new national policy in respect to taxation, regulations and competition so that they can be enabled to meet conditions on a more equal basis.

The measures to which the state's chief executive affixed his signature include:

Gardeners Urged Not To Put Out Plants Too Early

Average Date for Killing Frosts in Section Is May 8, McHenry Warns

The average date for killing frosts in this section is May 8 and Ralph F. McHenry, county farm agent, yesterday advised gardeners to play safe and refrain from putting out plants that are not too hardy at his time.

"We've had a backward spring this year and the lack of power from the sun has failed to make the ground warm enough for germination," McHenry said.

Evidence that there will be more vegetable gardens planted this year than ever before is indicated by the number of fields and lots which have been plowed in the past several weeks, the county agent declared.

Too Early for Tomatoes

Tomato plants have made their appearance on the market but it's rather early to place them in the ground and expose them to the chilling winds at the present time. These plants are not hardy and a light frost will kill them off in a hurry.

Sunday morning's frost in Cumberland and vicinity played havoc with vegetable plants set out by those attempting to "rush the season." The temperature here dropped to twenty-nine degrees and the mercury plunged even lower in other sections of the county.

Cold winds and lack of necessary sunshine have seriously handicapped gardeners who "jumped the starting gun."

108 Signs Issued

One hundred and eight "no trespassing" signs have been issued to date to local gardeners, it was announced yesterday by Ralph L. Rizer, chairman of the Cumberland Victory Garden Committee.

The signs cost ten cents each to defray the cost of printing.

Thirty-five of the signs have been sold by Webster K. Edwards, member of the Victory Garden committee.

Twenty-five persons have leased thirty-three city lots for victory gardens, Rizer reported.

COUNTY OFFICIALS HOLD MILD SESSION

The Board of Allegany County Commissioners yesterday met in regular session for one of the quietest meetings in many years. There were no complaints, no one appeared before the board and no communications were received.

The commissioners, however, voted to contribute $2,100 to the Cumberland Community Chest campaign, the amount to be paid from the contingent fund.

Commissioners James Holmes and Simeon W. Green accompanied by County Engineer John R. Carscaden and R. Mason Hill, supervisor of assessments will go to Baltimore today to confer with members of the Maryland State Roads Commission regarding county roads and road funds.

Horace P. Whitworth, attorney to the board was not at the meeting today as he was trying a case in Mineral county court at Keyser, W. Va.

OPA Issues Ruling On Lay Away Shoes

Shoe dealers will not be permitted to hold or lay away shoes for customers beyond the end of the period in which a current ration stamp is valid unless they receive the ration stamp in advance, the Cumberland field office of the OPA announced yesterday.

The local office also called attention to the last minute reversal which removes all dried and dehydrated soups from rationing, thus making obsolete food charts which designate points for these items.

Washington Couple Held in Connection With Bad Check

Man and Woman Picked Up in Hotel Here To Be Questioned Today

A Washington, D. C., couple were held in city jail last night in connection with passing an allegedly bad check here, Assistant Chief of Police John J. Treiber said.

The couple were docketed at police headquarters as James A. Hays and Maude E. Hays. Hays told police the woman is his wife. Treiber said a ration book bearing the name of Maude E. Lamplugh, Corpus Christie, Tex., was found in her purse. They will be questioned in the state's attorney's office today.

Hays told police he is in the junk business, Treiber said. The assistant chief added that Hays said he bought $240 worth of goods from Benjamin Waingold here and then gave him a $25 check on a Washington bank.

Treiber said the bank, in reply to a telephone query, stated that Hays has no deposit there.

The man and woman were arrested in a local hotel at 5:05 p. m. yesterday by Detectives R. E. Flynn and B. F. Gaffney and Officer F. A. Shober.

Treiber said the couple came here after visiting in Martinsburg, W. Va., Winchester and Harrisonburg, Va., and Hagerstown.

Inquest Is Planned In Monongahela River Drownings

Former Midlothian Couple's Car Plunged into Water from Ferry

An inquest will be held this week into the drowning of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Brode, formerly of Midlothian, after their car had been towed across the Monongahela river, near Morgantown, W. Va., Friday night on the rear apron of the Star City ferry, according to J. B. Riffle, Monongalia county coroner.

Mr. and Mrs. Brode, residents of Star City, W. Va., were sitting in the car and were drowned when the landing of the ferry on the Star City side of the river jarred the machine into the water.

Brode's body was taken from the water about twenty-five feet from shore shortly after the accident, but the body of his wife, Elizabeth, was not recovered until 6 a. m. Saturday, state police said.

Two other passengers in the car escaped drowning. Douglas Pritt, Star City, leaped from the machine when the ferry started across the river. His wife was rescued from the water after the car fell off the ferry. Pritt, after jumping from the boat, tried in vain to attract attention of the operator.

As the ferry left shore the back end of the Brode car was hanging over the apron into the water. Drivers of two other cars on the ferry grabbed the front bumper of the machine and urged Mr. and Mrs. Brode and Mrs. Pritt to climb over the fender to the boat. For some unexplained reason, Riffle said, they failed to heed this advice.

When the ferry landed, the men were unable to hold the machine and it slipped off the apron into the river.

Surviving Mr. Brode are his mother, Mrs. Agnes Brode, Frostburg; three sons, Richard and Henry Brode, Bertha, W. Va.; Carl A. Brode, Star City; one daughter, Mrs. Kathleen Jones, Miami, Fla.; two brothers, Arnold and Howard Brode, Frostburg; a sister, Mrs. Ethel Barnes, Frostburg.

Mrs. Brode, the former Miss Elizabeth McGee, is survived by the children, two brothers, Harry McGee, Hildebrand, W. Va.; Dave McGee, Riverseam, W. Va.; four sisters, Mrs. J. I. Kelly, Fairmont, W. Va.; Mrs. Carl Fisher, Morgantown; Mrs. Walter Sloey, Kent, Ohio; Mrs. Mary Dawson, Detroit, Mich.

Seven grandchildren also survive the couple.

Daulbaugh Paroled For Five Years

Edward Daulbaugh, Jr., convicted by a jury of robbing Thomas Burke, of the Liberty theater of $200 was arraigned in court yesterday and paroled for five years.

In passing sentence the court told Daulbaugh he is convicted of a serious crime, that of armed robbery and is being paroled on the condition that he abstain from the use of alcohol, get a job and go to work and make restitution.

During the Daulbaugh trial, the defense presented several witnesses who attempted to show that Daulbaugh had been "highly intoxicated" on the night of the robbery and would not have been capable of committing the crime. The prosecution showed however, that Daulbaugh had been in the theater and Burke identified him as the man who robbed him at the point of a pistol.

It was unofficially reported yesterday that members of the Daulbaugh family have made restitution, or have made arrangements to do so.

Nine Suits Scheduled for This Week; Jury Hears Glass Company Claim

Civil trials of the April term of circuit court got underway yesterday as a jury listened to a case between a New York firm and a local glass factory. About half the case was presented yesterday and it will be resumed and given to the jury today.

MINERS GO BACK TO JOBS; FLAGS FLY OVER PITS

More than 2,000 coal miners in Allegany and Garrett counties returned to work yesterday morning in mines now operating under government control as a fifteen day truce arranged by Secretary of the Interior Harold I. Ickes and John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, became effective.

American flags rippled in the breeze above the pits as the miners, idle since Friday morning, returned to their jobs.

Miners in adjacent West Virginia counties likewise went back to their jobs yesterday morning although some had returned on the night shift Monday.

Railroad officials here said placement of cars at the mines in this section indicated normal business, and union and coal company officials reiterated the statement.
